Behr Writes A Campaign Reform Bill

Tougher Controls Than In June's Proposition 9

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Broad legislation to reform political campaign finances by imposing tough controls on all contributions and expenditures has been drafted by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The senator said his measure is far more comprehensive than others pending in the Legislature, and goes further than Proposition 9 on the June ballot, the Common Cause initiative to reform campaign financing.

Behr's bill creates a state commission to police campaigns, limits the amount of contributions and expenditures, and requires strict accounting of all finances.

A key element in the measure is its requirement that all contributions over $50 go through a single treasurer for each campaign and then be deposited in a special bank account established in the candidate's name by a state Fair Political Prac-

OLD SLOGAN FADES AWAY

The morning after President Nixon announced in May 1970 that American troops were being sent into Cambodia, someone painted "Out of Asia" on this building at 1565 Fourth Street in San Rafael. There, with ever-diminishing impact, the words stayed until yesterday when the slogan disappeared under a fresh coat of light brown paint.

Reinecke Indicted On Three Charges

Accused Of Lying By Watergate Jury

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Watergate grand jury today indicted Lt.Gov. Ed Reinecke of California on three counts of lying in the federal investigation into the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. case.

After the indictment was announced, Chief U.S. District Judge George L. Hart angrily ordered Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski into court later today to answer questions about "an obvious and outrageous violation" of grand jury secrecy regulations.

Reinecke was charged with lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee during its hearings on the nomination of Richard Kleindienst to be attorney general; lying about when he first discussed bringing the 1972 Republican National Convention to San Diego; and lying about when he discovered that the Sheraton Corp. had offered the GOP money to hold the convention in San Diego.

The convention originally was scheduled for San Diego, but later was moved to Miami Beach after reports ITT and Sheraton, its subsidiary, had offered the Republicans $400,000 to defray some costs of the convention.

Reinecke declared himself innocent of the charges today and vowed to remain in the race for governor and fight the charges all the way.

"I am innocent," Reinecke told a news conference in Sacramento. "I will not plead guilty. There will be no plea bargaining. I intend to fight this action every bit of the way."

Hart, who opened the indictment and read it, said that at 11:45 a.m. EDT, "a man named Russ Teal came into court and he said he was from Congressman Waldie's office and asked for a copy of the indictment of Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke.

ED REINECKE
Proclaims innocence

"This was 22 minutes before the indictment was opened. It is an obvious and outrageous violation of criminal rule 6-E," the judge said, and told Joseph Connolly of Jaworski's staff:

"I want you to have Mr. Jaworski in this courtroom at 2 p.m."

Waldie is a Democratic representative from California.

Each count of perjury carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison, or a fine of $2,000, or both, upon conviction.

Reinecke, 50, spent three days in Washington in February trying to find out from Jaworksi whether he would be indicted. He told reporters Jaworski refused to give him the "official clearance of my name" he had requested.

Reinecke, a Republican candidate for governor of California, has said he is in the governor's race to stay. He had sought to clear his name so his campaign could continue.

Waldie is running for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in California.

"I am in the governor's race to stay," Reinecke has said. "I honestly prefer to have them—the people of California—make that determination as to whether or not I am entitled to their confidence for the next four

Recovered Loot Tied To Marin

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Four San Francisco policemen attempting to serve a stolen property warrant yesterday uncovered a houseful of loot taken in at least 12 burglaries, eight of them in Marin.

"You name it; we've got it," said Inspector Sol P. Weiner of the department's pawnship detail.

He said the house in the city's Ingleside district was filled with antiques, jewelry, sporting equipment, clocks, a television set, paintings, statuary, clothing, rare coins and even a 16-inch cannon from the Napoleonic era.

"We've been inventorying the stuff all day and we still aren't finished," Weiner said.

Burglary victims from Hillsborough, Sausalito, Tiburon and Belvedere already have identified some of the goods as their possessions, according to the inspector. He urged other victims who think their property may be among the stolen items to call the pawnship detail of the San Francisco Police Department. The goods will be shown by appointment only, Weiner said.

On Monday morning Weiner and inspectors Peter J. Maloney, William Brewer, and Edward Hall went to the home of Donald Peabody Proctor, 25, to serve the stolen goods warrant. The warrant had been issued after a gold bracelet Proctor reportedly had tried to pawn in February was identified as one stolen from a Hillsborough home.

Officers found Jamie Medina, 27, in the house and later discovered Proctor hiding in the attic. Weiner said the house was unfurnished, except for mattresses strewn around the floor and a few chairs which were part of the loot.

Proctor was booked into city jail on suspicion of possessing stolen property and held in lieu of $3,600 to appear today in San Francisco Municipal Court. When arrested yesterday, he was out on bail from Los Angeles where he is charged in connection with eight burlgaries, officers said.

Medina, who was free on bail, also was to appear in court today for possessing stolden goods.

Panel Says Nixon Owes Back Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and his wife Pat owe the government at least $476,431 in back taxes and interest for 1969 through 1972, the staff of a joint congressional committee concluded today.

The staff report, which ran 784 printed pages, stressed the committee was drawing no conclusions as to "whether there was or whether there was not fraud or negligence involved in any aspect" of the suspect tax returns, either on the part of the President or his personal representatives.

"The staff believes that it would be inappropriate to consider such matters in view of the fact that the House Judiciary Committee presently have before it an impeachment investigation relating to the President..." the staff report said.

The report also said that members of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which undertook the tax study at Nixon's request in December, may have to pass judgment on impeachment and so "would not want to have prejudged any issue which might be brought in any such proceedings."

The staff report, made public on a 9-1 vote of the prestigious committee, recommended that the Nixons be assessed $444,022 in back taxes for 1969 through 1972, his first term in the White House, plus interest of $32,409 for 1970 through 1972.

The committee recommended no interest for 1969 since the statute of limitations has expired on that year, but added that if Nixon voluntarily chose to pay the interest, the amount would be $40,732 for that year.

Release Is Promised By Hearst Kidnapers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The time and place of Patricia Hearst's release is to be announced within 72 hours, her kidnapers said yesterday.

In a message—concealed in a dozen roses—to an underground newspaper, the so-called Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA) said there would be another communication within 72 hours which will give "the state, city and time of release" of the newspaper heiress who was dragged from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

A florist's delivery man walked into the office of the paper, The Phoenix, and delivered a communique that was concealed within the flowers, along with half of Patricia's driving license.

Randolph A. Hearst, Patricia's father, said last night at his suburban Hillsborough home that he believes the driver's license is his daughter's.

"And we believe the communique is genuine," he said.

The Hearsts were accompanied at their front-step news conference by John Bryan, editor of The Phoenix, who had disclosed existence of the first word from the SLA since March 9.

There was confusion over the 72-hour provision.

The flowers were purchased Monday, and were to have been delivered that day. Because the delivery car broke down, the roses and their hidden message were not delivered until Tuesday.

Asked how he interpreted the 72-hour provision, Hearst said.

One Chapin Count Is Dismissed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal judge Gerhard A. Gesell today dismissed one count of the charges that Dwight Chapin lied to a Watergate grand jury about political dirty tricks against the Democrats in 1972.

The judge's decision came minutes after John W. Dean III testified that Chapin asked him to talk to political saboteur Donald Segretti after Segretti found out the FBI was curious about "political pranks" against Democratic presidential hopefuls in 1972.

The count dismissed alleged that Chapin, President Nixon's former appointments secretary, lied when he said he did not know exactly how much or how Segretti was paid for conducting the dirty tricks.

In yesterday's testimony, Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's lawyer, said he paid Segretti $45,000 in salary and expenses, some of it in cash and some by check—but his own figures were not precise.

When defense counsel Jacob Stein moved for dismissal of the charge, Gesell granted it. Government prosecutor Richard Davis argued that the question of Chapin's credibility on the point still was open, but Gesell said, "I am against you on count four."

The other three counts allege Chapin lied when he told the grand jury he never discussed with Segretti the distribution of campaign literature; when he told Segretti to talk to the FBI about dirty tricks; and when he said he did not recall giving Segretti instructions about any Democratic presidential candidate in 1972.

Jail Integration Idea Is Shelved

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County supervisors agreed yesterday to proceed with separate correctional programs for men and women inmates but said the programs may be merged sometime in the future. (Other supervisors stories, page 21.)

The board's unanimous vote to proceed with an independent new program for women culminated weeks of controversy and infighting over who will control the women's program.

As originally written for funding by the state, the program listed Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and criminal-justice planning director Bella H. Aaron as directors.

Two weeks ago, however, the county corrections commission recommended the new women's program be merged with the existing program for men at the honor farm. Such action, in effect, would have put the program under the operational control of Ralph Merola, director of the department of corrections.

Supervisors yesterday said they want Chief Probation Officer John W. Brewer to head the new program, which will offer educational, vocational and personal counseling to women in the county jail, among other things. Merging the two would result in further delays, supervisors said.

The corrections commission argued that separate programs would be discriminatory and in violation of the federal civil rights act. It said female inmates who qualify should be housed in a minimum security facility like the honor farm. (Currently, they are housed at the jail.)

Yesterday, however, the commission was chastized by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. as being "divisive" and "intentionally attempting to detour an honest effort" in setting up a correctional program for women.

"If I had the votes I'd move to abolish the commission right now," he said, bringing a scattering of "amens" and "right ons" from the large audience.

"Just stay out of the board room on Tuesdays from now on," Arrigoni told commissioners. "You few people think you have all the answers. If the 1964 Civil Rights Act is violated, big deal! Let's get on with this program."

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, said he favored one correctional program but failed to muster enough votes for an immediate study of merging the two for better administration and economy.

He said he supported the corrections commission's right to delve into controversial issues. Only Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini supported his move toward beginning a consolidation of the programs.

"We've got to move ahead and quit fooling around," Chairman Michael Wornum said in voting for separate programs. He said merging of the programs should take place after both are functioning.

Transit Board Wants Greater Say In Bridge District Affairs

The Golden Gate Bridge District board should be reconstituted to give Marin County a greater voice in its affairs, the Marin County Transit District board agreed yesterday. (Another transit board story, page 21.)

In adopting that stand unanimously, the transit board split 4 to 3 in favor of asking Marin representatives in Sacramento to introduce legislation "in whatever session they feel appropriate" to force the change.

The strange wording of the motion was prompted by a comment from County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney that Marin's two representatives are running for election "and are not interested" in carrying any more legislation.

(Senator Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, is running for reelection and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, is seeking election as state controller.)

Voting against asking for legislation were Directors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., a member of the bridge board; Michael Wornum, a former member of the bridge board; and Robert Burton.

They said the timing was wrong to make such a request in view of court action already challenging the San Francisco Board of Supervisors' control over its representatives and a study of the district by Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post.

"We won't gain anything by sitting back and waiting," Director Arnold M. Baptiste countered.

The item was raised by Director Robert A. Roumiguiere who said it was "ridiculous" that Marin has only three seats on the 18-member board, when most bridge and transit users are from Marin.

(While Marin has three seats, San Francisco has nine and the remaining six are split among the counties to the north of Marin.

(Representation was originally established based on the wealth of the counties in backing bonds to build the bridge. The bonds have since been paid.)

Roumiguiere said the bridge board should be reconstituted to represent the users of the bridge, which would give Marin a stronger voice.

Airlines Ask Subsidies Because Of Fuel Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines, pleading "overwhelming" fuel price increases, today asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for subsidies to get them through the next 12 months.

"We are simply overwhelmed with spiraling fuel costs," Pan Am said in requesting a mail subsidy of up to $194 million.

TWA also petitioned for a subsidy but did not spell out a figure, saying it would depend on whether fuel prices went up still further and whether traffic does not fall below 1973 levels.

TWA said at present fuel prices, it would sustain a pretax loss for this year of $47.2 million as compared to a profit of $19.5 million last year.

TWA said it was paying an average of 42.65 cents a gallon for jet fuel and as much as $1.10 a gallon in Bombay.

Pan Am said its 1974 fuel bill would increase by $204 million over last year and forecast an operating loss of $85.4 million unless it got help.

Pan Am said it had done everything possible to economize since the energy crisis erupted in November, but that fuel costs now were out of sight.

The airline said it had suspended services at a number of points, reduced schedules substantially, proposed pooling of services with other airlines, laid off almost 2,500 workers in the last four months and reduced its number of employes by almost 18 per cent from as far back as 1970.

Pompidou Dies; A Simple Funeral

PARIS (UPI) — The cabinet met today to organize elections within a month for a new French chief of state after the unexpected death of President Georges Pompidou yesterday from a long and lonely illness he refused to the end to admit.

Pompidou's handwritten will asked he be buried privately in a simple grave with only his name on the headstone. Like Charles de Gaulle before him, he asked it take place "without public pomp."

Presidential palace officials said the burial will take place tomorrow "in the strictest intimacy" at Orvilliers, southwest of Paris where Pompidou and his wife, Claude, bought a modest white-washed villa and named it the "White House."

A national religious service will be held on Saturday.

Alain Poher, the president of the Senate, took over as interim president until the new elections which must be held between April 22 and May 7.

Pompidou's ruling conservative Gaullists and a Socialist-Communist block will contest the future leadership of France in what may be the most open contest in years. Both sides scheduled meetings to choose their candidates.

With the ministers all in black ties, the cabinet met for 40 minutes under Prime Minister Pierre Messmer. Messmer then drove direct to the Luxembourg Palace to confer on the details with Poher.

The eight-man Constitutional Council, which is the watchdog of French political procedure, also met. Its job is to proclaim officially a vacancy in the presidency.

"The President, in a handwritten testament dated August 1972, asked that his burial take place without public pomp," a spokesman at the Elysee presidential palace said. "He wants only that a mass be said for him after the funeral at his parish church."

Pompidou said he wanted no flowers and a headstone over the grave simply bearing his name.

French government officials declined to comment on speculation that President Nixon and European leaders may hold a summit meeting in Paris after the funeral.

Five Indicted In IRS Smuggling Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five men who the Justice Department alleged tried to smuggle arms to the Irish Republican Army (IRA) have been indicted by a grand jury on 23 counts of conspiracy.

A federal grand jury in Baltimore yesterday accused the defendants —three Americans, one Irishman and a British subject —of conspiring to defraud the U.S. government for almost one year by purchasing 168 weapons and 10,600 rounds of ammunition intended for the IRA.

Not all of the arms have been recovered and a Justice Department spokesman said he did not know where the rest were. Sources close to the investigation said, however, that some of the weapons may have gotten into IRA hands.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe said agents of the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau seized 70 firearms in a truck in Woodside, N.Y., on Feb. 14, 1974. The grand jury charged the defendants conspired to defraud the government from March 23, 1973, to Feb. 14, 1974.

The grand jury accused the defendants of conspiring to defraud the government by illegally purchasing 158 AR15 semiautomatic rifles, similar to automatic M16s used by the U.S. Army.

They were also charged with illegally purchasing six handguns, four .25-caliber semiautomatic pistols and two .32 caliber semiautomatic pistols.

Those indicted were:

James Conlon, also known as Frank Osworth, 34, a citizen of the Republic of Ireland and part owner of the Emerald Club in New York City.

Francis M. Larkin, 35, of Riverdale, Md.

William Westerlund, 26, of Kensington, Md., a partner in the Westcap Gun Shop in Kensington.

All of the defendants were charged with various violations of the 1968 Gun Control Act, including using false names, counterfeiting federal firearms licenses and illegally transporting firearms and explosive devices across state lines.

According to the conspiracy count, Hillick, Larkin and McMahon used false identification and counterfeit federal licenses to purchase the rifles from federally licensed dealers in Maryland.

It said Westerlund would make false entries in the records of the Westcap Gun Shop to show the purchases were legitimate and then ship the rifles and about 10,600 rounds of ammunition to Washington, D.C., and New York City. The maximum penalty upon conviction for the shipping of explosives interstate is 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine; for conspiracy five years in prison and $10,000 fine and for violation of the Gun Control act five years in prison and $5,000 fine.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Energy problems have delayed the opening of Yellowstone National Park, and officials now are shooting for May 18.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Mariner Idled

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Mariner 10 is being shut down more than a week early in hopes of preserving its camera and other systems from a short circuit, so the spacecraft can make another pass at Mercury in September.

Caltech's Jet Propulsion Laboratory announced that Mariner had taken its last picture of Mercury Monday, although it had been planned for the space explorer to continue photographing the planet until April 11.

Loyalist Advance

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian government troops advanced today on a Communist-held area near Oudong, the old royal capital Cambodian forces have been fighting to recapture for the past week, the high command said.

It said elements of the 80th Infantry Brigade were closing in on rebel troops near Chedei Themei just east of Oudong, which is 17 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

Insurgent soldiers have controlled the town, built in the 17th Century, since Thursday after routing a government garrison and capturing more than 300 civilians and soldiers in 10 days of hard fighting.

Searches Fail

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British house-by-house searches in Northern Ireland will not stop extremist attacks, a police officer viewing the bombed-out center of Antrim town said today.

The officer said the attack last night on Antrim, about 10 miles northwest of Belfast, marked the first serious puncture in the new security effort to stop bombings and assassinations.

Police said four gunmen hijacked a car and forced the woman driver to take it into Antrim, where a bomb loaded in the trunk exploded and demolished 12 stores, the police station and a hotel.

Honeymoon Break

ACAPULCO (UPI) — Henry Kissinger interrupted his honeymoon briefly today for talks with Mexican Foreign Minister Emilio Rabasa on Mexican proposals for a new treaty regulating entry of Mexican farm workers into the United States.

Rabasa, who presented his proposals in Washington in February, confirmed here he asked Kissinger for a meeting to discuss the idea.

Kidnapers Silent

HERMOSILLO, Mexico (UPI) — Twelve days ago, U.S. vice consul John Patterson was kidnaped by persons asking $500,000 ransom. Since that time there has been no further contact with the kidnapers and U.S. officials said today they are "very worried" about Patterson's life.

The State Department in Washington said there has been no word since two hours after the March 22 abduction, when a ransom note was found containing "a demand for money and instructions for its delivery."

The department said "Mrs. Patterson followed those instructions precisely, but no contact was made."

Agnew Home

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who sold his home in the Washington suburbs last week for $300,000, will probably move to a less expensive but still desirable neighborhood near this Maryland capital.

Mrs. Charles McGowan, wife of a builder, said Agnew purchased one of her husband's homes last Saturday in the Indian Hills section three miles north of here.

Sources other than the McGowans estimated the price at $70,000-$90,000.

Coalition Near

VIENTIANE (UPI) — Prince Souphanouvong, titular head of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, arrived in Vientiane today to form the long-delayed coalition government with Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma, a half brother he had not seen for more than 10 years.

Souphanouvong, 62, and Souvanna Phouma, 73, are expected to fly tomorrow to the oyal capital of Luang Prabang about 150 miles north of here where they will present their coalition government, the first since 1963, to King Savang Vatthana for royal approval.

Captives Sought

ASMARA, Ethiopia (UPI) — Ethiopian guerrillas herded five North American prisoners across the country's rugged mountains today, hotly pursued by tribal chiefs and village elders trying to secure their release.

Police sources said, however, they expect the five men — three Americans and two Canadians — to be released within two days.

The men, all employed by Tenneco Ethiopia, were captured after a rain and hail storm forced down their helicopter near the Red Sea port of Massawa.

Segregation Of Smokers Successful

A program which provides voluntary segregation of smoking and nonsmoking patients at Marin General Hospital has proven successful and will be continued, the hospital administrator said today.

Ray K. Bolinger said for the last month patients have been asked during admission if they are smokers or not. Room assignments are made to appropriate areas.

"We have had some favorable comments," he said today. "In the majority of cases it has been successful."

Hospital staff also directs person with lung problems to the nonsmoking areas and encourages visitors not to light up in the nonsmoking rooms.

Bolinger said the two groups are not always separated, however, because the hospital is sometimes too full to keep those who puff segregated from those who don't.

Room transfers are made to accommodate the patient's preference as soon as space in his desired area is available, he said.

Mrs. Kissinger Described As Private Person

That was the impression relayed of the new Mrs. Kissinger yesterday by the faculty members at Lehigh University, where she and six members of her family attended the dedication of a building named for her father in 1971.

One professor remembered her father, Albert Bristol Maginnes, a trustee of the university and a graduate of the class of 1921, as "the tall one who used to stand at the sidelines at the east end zone at most home football games."

However, he said he did not remember Nancy when she, her mother, two brothers and three other members of the Maginnes family attended the dedication of the Maginnes Hall of Liberal Arts.

As new.

Santa Rosa Stalls Plan On Fighting Mosquitos

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA -- Sonoma County supervisors, who have indicated a desire to join the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District, are stymied for the time being by the reluctance of the Santa Rosa City Council to support the move.

Santa Rosa Mayor Gregory Jones told supervisors Monday that his council has voted unanimously against joining the district because the city needs its money for other uses and because there haven't been many mosquito complaints.

The supervisors, though, indicated that they have heard complaints, and they said the county health service has collected potentially dangerous mosquito specimens in several Santa Rosa locations.

County health officials told the supervisors it would be preferable to join the Marin District, which already includes Petaluma, rather than forming a new organization.

The Sonoma Board of Supervisors also:

BASSA — Agreed to support legislation by Assemblyman John Dunlap, D-Napa, which would force dissolution of the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency, a body the supervisors have opposed since its creation several years ago.

ROADS — Directed Public Works Director Donald Head to meet with Golden Gate Bridge district officials to establish priorities for spending the $1.5 million in federal money expected by Sonoma County during the next three years. The funds must be spent on urban transportation problems.

INDIANS — Agreed to hear the Pomo Indians who earlier were denied permission to address the board. The group said they opposed the Warm Springs Dam near Healdsburg because it would inundate their ancestral homes in the Dry Creek Valley.

Fig Production

FRESNO (AP) — Members of Valley Fig Growers can expect fiscal 1973-74 returns to double last year's total of $1.9 million, president W. H. Corbett said today.

Witness Tells Plan To Blast Yablonski

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — A witness at the murder trial of W. A. (Tony) Boyle testified today of a plan to dynamite the home of United Mine Workers union reform candidate Joseph A. (Jock) Yablonski.

George Smith Jr., of Tennessee, said he discussed but then rejected a plan to dynamite the Yablonski hooe in Clarksville, Pa., where the UMW leader, his wife and daughter were shot to death.

Smith said Silous Huddleston, one of those who has confessed in the Yablonski slayings, "wanted me to dynamite the Yablonski home. He wanted me to put the dynamite in a sack and put it against the Zablonski home."

Smith said the explosives would be a 100-pound sack that would hold a case and a half of dynamite.

The witness said Huddleston told him it "had to be done over the holidays" and that there would be $4,200 in it for him and Paul Gilly, one of those later convicted of the slayings.

Smith said he told Huddleston he would check on the dynamite and call him.

"I stayed home about 30 or 40 minutes and called my father and told him to call Mr. Huddleston and tell him I wanted no part of it."

A recess was then called to allow Boyle's defense counsel, Charles F. Moses, to go over the witness' direct testimony prior to crossexamination.

Earlier, Yablonski's son Joseph (Chip), testified he was "fearful for his father's safety" when two men came to his home in October, 1969.

The younger Yablonski and his wife, Shirley, testified about a visit they received at their Bethesda, Md., home on Oct. 24, 1969 from Claude Vealey and Walter Phillips.

Witnesses testified earlier in the trial that it had been originally planned to kill Jock Yablonski in the Washington, D. C. high crime rate area so that the UMW would not be blamed.

Shirley Yablonski said when the men came to the door and asked for "Mr. Yablonski. I called Chip to the door because I was frightened."

Her husband said "my wife was very emotional about it and I guess I was too. I was fearful for my father's safety."

CAMPAIGN

tices Commission. All campaign expenses, in turn, could be paid only from this single account.

All finances thus "will be automatically recorded as a bookkeeping entry at the banking office," Behr said, adding "with this self-contained disclosure system, we will not have to rely solely on the good faith or diligence of campaign treasurers."

The commission would be composed of appointees by the State Bar Association, State Association of Accountants, League of California Cities, County Supervisors Association of California, California Supreme Judicial Council and state central committees of any political party with 15 per cent or more of the registered voters in the state. At present, the Republican and Democratic parties are the only ones meeting this qualification, thus the commission initially would have seven members.

Members will serve four-year terms, cannot be reappointed, serve full time with salaries of $28,000 to $30,000, and may not run for, be appointed to, or be employed in any state office for two years after leaving the commission. They also would be barred from lobbying or serving on a state central committee for this two-year period.

The executive director of the commission would be subject to the same restrictions.

Campaign expenditures would be limited to seven cents per registered voter for each candidate for governor in the primary election, or about $980,000 apiece; and nine cents in the general election, or about $1,260,000.

The six other statewide offices would have limits of three cents in the primary and five cents in the general.

Limits for legislative office would be in dollar amounts: $60,000 and $65,000 for the primary and general elections respectively for Senate, and $35,000 and $40,000 for the primary and general elections for Assembly.

The limits would be adjusted annually to reflect changes in the cost of living.

Limits on contributions would be: governor, $5,000 by an individual and $10,000 by a bona fide organization; $2,500 and $5,000 to candidates for the other statewide offices; $1,000 and $2,000 for Senate candidates and $750 and $1,500 for Assembly candidates. A "bona fide organization" is defined as one not controlled directly or indirectly by the candidate, whose primary purpose is not the raising of campaign contributions, and one in being and active for at least two years before the contribution is made.

Any campaign expenses exceeding $50 would have to be paid only by a check drawn on the candidate's bank account, and providers of goods and services would have to verify that there were no hidden costs, payments or discounts.

Incumbent state legislators running for reelection after four years in office may spend only 90 per cent of the maximum allowed for other candidates. The limits also would be waived for legislators running in new districts which include fewer than 80 per cent of the constituents of their former districts.

The commission would be financed by assessments, not to exceed 3 per cent, on contributions received by candidates. Its budget would be limited to $2 million a year in general election years and $1 million in other years.

A section on contributions by lobbyists will be added to the bill, Behr's staff said, but still is being drafted.

The limits still allow financing of thorough campaigns, but are designed to prevent a disparity among the amounts candidates spend.

Reinecke reportedly has told federal prosecutors he discussed the prospective ITT contribution with former Attorney General John N. Mitchell prior to the controversial 1971 settlement by the Justice Department of a massive antitrust case against ITT.

Reinecke at the time was trying to help San Diego become the site of the convention. He reportedly has given varying accounts of whether he discussed the ITT matter with Mitchell.

Both men denied under oath they had talked about the matter. Their denials came in 1372 at the Kleindienst confirmation hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Reinecke was handpicked by Gov. Ronald Reagan in 1969 to fill the post which Robert Finch vacated to join the Nixon administration.

For years, Reinecke, a former California congressman and mechanical engineer, was considered the Republican governor's favorite to succeed him as California's chief executive.

Reinecke did little to attract widespread political acclaim, but his conservative sentiments mirrored Reagan's closely.

Tot Critical From Fall Into Pool

A 2-year-old San Anselmo boy who apparently fell into the family swimming pool yesterday was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Police said Mathew L. Simms of 67 Oak Springs Drive was found in the pool about 2 p.m. yesterday.

San Quentin Prisoner Is Stabbed

Jose Ortiz, 25-year-old San Quentin inmate, was reported in "very critical condition" today in the prison hospital with 11 stab wounds received in apparent gang violence yesterday.

Ortiz was found shortly before noon in the first tier of the prison's East Block with wounds in the back, stomach, chest, shoulder and head, according to a prison spokesman. Three prison-made knives were found nearby.

Officials said three members of the Nuestro Familia, a Chican prison gang, are being held for questioning in connection with the attack.

Ortiz was convicted of stabbing two members of the gang at Chino State Prison in 1972 and officials believe yesterday's violence may be in retaliation.

Ortiz originally was sentenced for attempted grand theft in Los Angeles. His term was extended to three years to life after the Chino assault.

HEARST

Hearst said he was convinced the portion of driver's license was his daughter's. "The date is right, the area is right, and we believe it to be true."

Asked why he thinks he got a promise of imminent release from the kidnapers, Hearst replied:

"I don't want to speculate. All I know is that every time I speculate I generally make a mistake. So I'm just going to believe them when they say she'll be back soon."

Asked why he thought The Phoenix received the message, Bryan said it was because his paper is anti-establishment and "interested in social change."

He said he felt the SLA is "really romantic, like something out of a strange, 19th century Russian revolutionary novel.

Accompanying the message to The Phoenix was a two page "codes of war" in which the SLA again outlined the disciplinary procedures expected of its members.

The "codes of war" stressed that "prisoners are to receive instructions on the goals of the Symbionese Liberation Army, and then be released in a safe area."

Ten days ago The Phoenix received a letter purporting to be from the SLA which said Patricia had learned "political consciousness" during her captivity.

The messages were in a business-size envelope contained in the floral package.

"This communication is to be sent through you to the people," the communique said. It was signed by "Gen. Field Marshal Cin. SLA." Previous communications from the kidnapers also have been signed by Field Marshal Cinque, who is known as "Cin".

"You are hereby directed by the Court of the People to notify immediately radio station KPFA, KSAN and KDIA concerning the complete contents of this communication, understanding that you must not cooperate with the FBI by turning over this communication or by providing any information. Protect your rights as reporters by refusing to reveal your sources of information.

Wallace Sees Presidential Chances Good

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace says he thinks he has an "excellent" chance of being elected President in 1976 if he decides to seek the Democratic nomination.

Wallace insisted at a luncheon for Capitol reporters yesterday that he has not made up his mind whether he will make his fourth bid for the presidency. But he said "somebody with the philosophy I represent will have a good chance.

"I believe Governor Wallace will have an excellent chance," the gubernatorial candidate told newsmen. "I wouldn't decide to run if I didn't think my chances are excellent."

Wallace said he was not interested in being vice president.

The Case Of A Sleeping Judge

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (UPI) — Public defender Brooks Taylor asked yesterday for a new trial in circuit court on the ground that Circuit Judge Charles Wade fell asleep as Ronald Faye Leigh was being tried for murder last January.

Leigh was convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to life in prison.

Taylor's motion alleged that Wade fell asleep on "at least two occasions on different days during Leigh's first degree murder trial."

Taylor asked that Wade disqualify himself from hearing the motion and appear as a witness at the hearing. He has asked the chief justice of the Florida Supreme Court to appoint another judge to hear the motion.

Refunds Due In Holiday Magic Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Persons who invested more than $250 million in Holiday Magic, the San Rafael cosmetics company, and 11 affiliated firms have been promised all restitution possible by a federal court consent judgment.

A Securities and Exchange Commission attorney said claims by nearly 30,000 persons who purchased master and general distributorships could exceed $100 million. Purchasers were given until Aug. 12 to file claims, according to an order signed yesterday by U.S. District Court Judge Lloyd H. Burke.

Holiday Magic, founded by the late William Penn Patrick of Tiburon, was sued by the SEC last June. The SEC alleged that Holiday Magic, 11 affiliated firms, including Bob Cummings, Inc., and 12 individuals engaged in "fraudulent operations of pyramid promotion or endless chain schemes under the guise of marketing various retail products."

The SEC complaint said misrepresentations were made and material facts omitted in recruiting investors for distributorships and a share of potential profits from investments of others in distributorships.

Claims will be made against a restitution fund made up of all nonoperating assets of the companies, proceeds from sale of foreign operations and a sliding percentage of the corporations' future gross monthly retail cash sales of products.

The corporations named in the suit are no longer managed by the individual defendants. The companies have agreed to consent judgment "without admitting or denying allegations" in the complaint. Following the SEC suit, the firms also agreed to discontinue pyramid marketing and direct their program to product sales instead of distributorship sales.

New Games Tourney Is Approved

A request for a second "New Games Tournament" at the Martha Alexander Gerbode Preserve was approved last night by the Marin County Board of Education.

The Point Foundation, sponsors of the first event in October which drew national news coverage, will hold the second event May 11, 12, 18 and 19.

The board questioned the adequacy of insurance in the Point Foundation proposal but was assured by staff that the $1 million liability coverage suggested was adequate, according to Robert E. Spain, assistant superintendent.

The preserve is leased by the board for nature study. The Point Foundation will not be charged for use of the preserve, Spain said.

Woodland Hills (UPI) — Character actor Douglass Dumbrille, who played the high priest in "The Ten Commandments," died of a heart attack yesterday at the Motion Picture Country Home and Hospital at the age of 84.

He also appeared in "The Bengal Lancers" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," and frequently played villains, bankers and priests. He had retired from show business eight years ago after appearing in a number of television shows, including the Phil Silver series.

Funeral services were pending.

Fairfax Groups To Air Cause For Bond Support

The Fairfax Merchants and Businessman's Association will hold a public forum on local ballot issues facing voters in June at 8 p.m. April 23 in the Fairfax Women's Club.

Members of the Fairfax School District administration will appear at the event to explain the need for a $750,000 bond issue for a multiuse facility at White Hill School, according to Jerry Brown, association moderator.

Rezoning of the Central School site will also be discussed at the forum, he added.

In addition, representatives of the Fairfax Police Officers Association will appear to discuss a ballot measure that would set police pay at the average wage paid by other police agencies in the county, he said.

The association also said that the city council will hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. May 13 in the Fairfax Women's Club to discuss the town sign ordinance, Brown said, adding the ordinance is in need of amendment since it would ban "95 per cent of signs in town."

Penn Central Negotiates With Amtrak

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Penn Central Transportation Co. announced yesterday it has negotiated a new agreement with the National Railroad Passenger Corp. (AMTRAK) that will raise its subsidy and thereby improve passenger service.

The agreement, retroactive to July 1, 1973, would increase the annual payments to Penn Central by $10 million to $12 million, to $134.5 million annually.

It also provides incentives for improvements of the on-time performance percentages above 1973 levels and penalties for excessive delays and other deficiencies by the railroad in meeting service standards.

The agreement must be approved by U.S. District Court. A hearing is set for April 19.

Witness Tells Plan To Blast Yablonski

MEDIA, Pa. (UPI) — A witness at the murder trial of W. A. (Tony) Boyle testified today of a plan to dynamite the home of United Mine Workers union reform candidate Joseph A. (Jock) Yablonski.

George Smith Jr., of Tennessee, said he discussed but then rejected a plan to dynamite the Yablonski hooe in Clarksville, Pa., where the UMW leader, his wife and daughter were shot to death.

Smith said Silous Huddleston, one of those who has confessed in the Yablonski slayings, "wanted me to dynamite the Yablonski home. He wanted me to put the dynamite in a sack and put it against the Zablonski home."

Smith said the explosives would be a 100-pound sack that would hold a case and a half of dynamite.

The witness said Huddleston told him it "had to be done over the holidays" and that there would be $4,200 in it for him and Paul Gilly, one of those later convicted of the slayings.

Smith said he told Huddleston he would check on the dynamite and call him.

"I stayed home about 30 or 40 minutes and called my father and told him to call Mr. Huddleston and tell him I wanted no part of it."

A recess was then called to allow Boyle's defense counsel, Charles F. Moses, to go over the witness' direct testimony prior to crossexamination.

Earlier, Yablonski's son Joseph (Chip), testified he was "fearful for his father's safety" when two men came to his home in October, 1969.

The younger Yablonski and his wife, Shirley, testified about a visit they received at their Bethesda, Md., home on Oct. 24, 1969 from Claude Vealey and Walter Phillips.

Witnesses testified earlier in the trial that it had been originally planned to kill Jock Yablonski in the Washington, D. C. high crime rate area so that the UMW would not be blamed.

Shirley Yablonski said when the men came to the door and asked for "Mr. Yablonski. I called Chip to the door because I was frightened."

Her husband said "my wife was very emotional about it and I guess I was too. I was fearful for my father's safety."

Reinecke reportedly has told federal prosecutors he discussed the prospective ITT contribution with former Attorney General John N. Mitchell prior to the controversial 1971 settlement by the Justice Department of a massive antitrust case against ITT.

Reinecke at the time was trying to help San Diego become the site of the convention. He reportedly has given varying accounts of whether he discussed the ITT matter with Mitchell.

Both men denied under oath they had talked about the matter. Their denials came in 1972 at the Kleindienst confirmation hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Reinecke was handpicked by Gov. Ronald Reagan in 1969 to fill the post which Robert Finch vacated to join the Nixon administration.

For years, Reinecke, a former California congressman and mechanical engineer, was considered the Republican governor's favorite to succeed him as California's chief executive.

Reinecke did little to attract widespread political acclaim, but his conservative sentiments mirrored Reagan's closely.

CAMPAIGN

tices Commission. All campaign expenses, in turn, could be paid only from this single account.

All finances thus "will be automatically recorded as a bookkeeping entry at the banking office," Behr said, adding "with this self-contained disclosure system, we will not have to rely solely on the good faith or diligence of campaign treasurers."

The commission would be composed of appointees by the State Bar Association, State Association of Accountants, League of California Cities, County Supervisors Association of California, California Supreme Judicial Council and state central committees of any political party with 15 per cent or more of the registered voters in the state. At present, the Republican and Democratic parties are the only ones meeting this qualification, thus the commission initially would have seven members.

Members will serve four-year terms, cannot be reappointed, serve full time with salaries of $28,000 to $30,000, and may not run for, be appointed to, or be employed in any state office for two years after leaving the commission. They also would be barred from lobbying or serving on a state central committee for this two-year period.

The executive director of the commission would be subject to the same restrictions.

Campaign expenditures would be limited to seven cents per registered voter for each candidate for governor in the primary election, or about $980,000 apiece; and nine cents in the general election, or about $1,260,000.

The six other statewide offices would have limits of three cents in the primary and five cents in the general.

Limits for legislative office would be in dollar amounts: $60,000 and $65,000 for the primary and general elections respectively for Senate, and $35,000 and $40,000 for the primary and general elections for Assembly.

The limits would be adjusted annually to reflect changes in the cost of living.

Limits on contributions would be: governor, $5,000 by an individual and $10,000 by a bona fide organization; $2,500 and $5,000 to candidates for the other statewide offices; $1,000 and $2,000 for Senate candidates and $750 and $1,500 for Assembly candidates. A "bona fide organization" is defined as one not controlled directly or indirectly by the candidate, whose primary purpose is not the raising of campaign contributions, and one in being and active for at least two years before the contribution is made.

Any campaign expenses exceeding $50 would have to be paid only by a check drawn on the candidate's bank account, and providers of goods and services would have to verify that there were no hidden costs, payments or discounts.

Incumbent state legislators running for reelection after four years in office may spend only 90 per cent of the maximum allowed for other candidates. The limits also would be waived for legislators running in new districts which include fewer than 80 per cent of the constituents of their former districts.

The commission would be financed by assessments, not to exceed 3 per cent, on contributions received by candidates. Its budget would be limited to $2 million a year in general election years and $1 million in other years.

A section on contributions by lobbyists will be added to the bill, Behr's staff said, but still is being drafted.

The limits still allow financing of thorough campaigns, but are designed to prevent a disparity among the amounts candidates spend.

Tot Critical From Fall Into Pool

A 2-year-old San Anselmo boy who apparently fell into the family swimming pool yesterday was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Police said Mathew L. Simms of 67 Oak Springs Drive was found in the pool about 2 p.m. yesterday.

San Quentin Prisoner Is Stabbed

Jose Ortiz, 25-year-old San Quentin inmate, was reported in "very critical condition" today in the prison hospital with 11 stab wounds received in apparent gang violence yesterday.

Ortiz was found shortly before noon in the first tier of the prison's East Block with wounds in the back, stomach, chest, shoulder and head, according to a prison spokesman. Three prison-made knives were found nearby.

Officials said three members of the Nuestro Familia, a Chican prison gang, are being held for questioning in connection with the attack.

Ortiz was convicted of stabbing two members of the gang at Chino State Prison in 1972 and officials believe yesterday's violence may be in retaliation.

Ortiz originally was sentenced for attempted grand theft in Los Angeles. His term was extended to three years to life after the Chino assault.

HEARST

Hearst said he was convinced the portion of driver's license was his daughter's. "The date is right, the area is right, and we believe it to be true."

Asked why he thinks he got a promise of imminent release from the kidnapers, Hearst replied:

"I don't want to speculate. All I know is that every time I speculate I generally make a mistake. So I'm just going to believe them when they say she'll be back soon."

Asked why he thought The Phoenix received the message, Bryan said it was because his paper is anti-establishment and "interested in social change."

He said he felt the SLA is "really romantic, like something out of a strange, 19th century Russian revolutionary novel.

Accompanying the message to The Phoenix was a two page "codes of war" in which the SLA again outlined the disciplinary procedures expected of its members.

The "codes of war" stressed that "prisoners are to receive instructions on the goals of the Symbionese Liberation Army, and then be released in a safe area."

Ten days ago The Phoenix received a letter purporting to be from the SLA which said Patricia had learned "political consciousness" during her captivity.

The messages were in a business-size envelope contained in the floral package.

"This communication is to be sent through you to the people," the communique said. It was signed by "Gen. Field Marshal Cin. SLA." Previous communications from the kidnapers also have been signed by Field Marshal Cinque, who is known as "Cin".

"You are hereby directed by the Court of the People to notify immediately radio station KPFA, KSAN and KDIA concerning the complete contents of this communication, understanding that you must not cooperate with the FBI by turning over this communication or by providing any information. Protect your rights as reporters by refusing to reveal your sources of information.

Wallace Sees Presidential Chances Good

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace says he thinks he has an "excellent" chance of being elected President in 1976 if he decides to seek the Democratic nomination.

Wallace insisted at a luncheon for Capitol reporters yesterday that he has not made up his mind whether he will make his fourth bid for the presidency. But he said "somebody with the philosophy I represent will have a good chance.

"I believe Governor Wallace will have an excellent chance," the gubernatorial candidate told newsmen. "I wouldn't decide to run if I didn't think my chances are excellent."

Wallace said he was not interested in being vice president.

The Case Of A Sleeping Judge

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (UPI) — Public defender Brooks Taylor asked yesterday for a new trial in circuit court on the ground that Circuit Judge Charles Wade fell asleep as Ronald Faye Leigh was being tried for murder last January.

Taylor's motion alleged that Wade fell asleep on "at least two occasions on different days during Leigh's first degree murder trial."

Taylor asked that Wade disqualify himself from hearing the motion and appear as a witness at the hearing. He has asked the chief justice of the Florida Supreme Court to appoint another judge to hear the motion.

Fairfax Groups To Air Cause For Bond Support

The Fairfax Merchants and Businessman's Association will hold a public forum on local ballot issues facing voters in June at 8 p.m. April 23 in the Fairfax Women's Club.

Members of the Fairfax School District administration will appear at the event to explain the need for a $750,000 bond issue for a multiuse facility at White Hill School, according to Jerry Brown, association moderator.

Rezoning of the Central School site will also be discussed at the forum, he added.

In addition, representatives of the Fairfax Police Officers Association will appear to discuss a ballot measure that would set police pay at the average wage paid by other police agencies in the county, he said.

The association also said that the city council will hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. May 13 in the Fairfax Women's Club to discuss the town sign ordinance, Brown said, adding the ordinance is in need of amendment since it would ban "95 per cent of signs in town."

Penn Central Negotiates With Amtrak

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Penn Central Transportation Co. announced yesterday it has negotiated a new agreement with the National Railroad Passenger Corp. (AMTRAK) that will raise its subsidy and thereby improve passenger service.

The agreement, retroactive to July 1, 1973, would increase the annual payments to Penn Central by $10 million to $12 million, to $134.5 million annually.

It also provides incentives for improvements of the on-time performance percentages above 1973 levels and penalties for excessive delays and other deficiencies by the railroad in meeting service standards.

The agreement must be approved by U.S. District Court. A hearing is set for April 19.

Refunds Due In Holiday Magic Case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Persons who invested more than $250 million in Holiday Magic, the San Rafael cosmetics company, and 11 affiliated firms have been promised all restitution possible by a federal court consent judgment.

A Securities and Exchange Commission attorney said claims by nearly 30,000 persons who purchased master and general distributorships could exceed $100 million. Purchasers were given until Aug. 12 to file claims, according to an order signed yesterday by U.S. District Court Judge Lloyd H. Burke.

Holiday Magic, founded by the late William Penn Patrick of Tiburon, was sued by the SEC last June. The SEC alleged that Holiday Magic, 11 affiliated firms, including Bob Cummings, Inc., and 12 individuals engaged in "fraudulent operations of pyramid promotion or endless chain schemes under the guise of marketing various retail products."

The SEC complaint said misrepresentations were made and material facts omitted in recruiting investors for distributorships and a share of potential profits from investments of others in distributorships.

Claims will be made against a restitution fund made up of all nonoperating assets of the companies, proceeds from sale of foreign operations and a sliding percentage of the corporations' future gross monthly retail cash sales of products.

The corporations named in the suit are no longer managed by the individual defendants. The companies have agreed to consent judgment "without admitting or denying allegations" in the complaint. Following the SEC suit, the firms also agreed to discontinue pyramid marketing and direct their program to product sales instead of distributorship sales.

New Games Tourney Is Approved

A request for a second "New Games Tournament" at the Martha Alexander Gerbode Preserve was approved last night by the Marin County Board of Education.

The Point Foundation, sponsors of the first event in October which drew national news coverage, will hold the second event May 11, 12, 18 and 19.

The board questioned the adequacy of insurance in the Point Foundation proposal but was assured by staff that the $1 million liability coverage suggested was adequate, according to Robert E. Spain, assistant superintendent.

The preserve is leased by the board for nature study. The Point Foundation will not be charged for use of the preserve, Spain said.

Freeze On Ridge Is Council's Aim

Sausalito city councilmen last night moved toward freezing development on two ridge areas eyed by the city for open space.

On a motion by Violeta Autumn, councilmen voted 4-1, Sally Stanford opposed, to direct City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to draft an ordinance that would prevent building on Cypress Ridge and the south ridgelands for one year.

Both areas, totaling about 45 acres, are recommended in the city open space element for purchase.

Mrs. Autumn appealed to her colleagues to support the moratorium as a gesture indicating the city's commitment to buy the properties.

Councilmen instructed the citizens open space committee to complete by June 1 a report that would detail procedures for placing an open space bond election on the November ballot.

Excluded from the building ban proposal was the glen, a 20,000-square-foot area on Casneau Avenue with a creek, small pond and overhanging bay trees.

The community appearances advisory board recently approved architectural plans for a single-family home in the glen, which prompted Mrs. Autumn's moratorium plan.

On the recommendation of City Mgr. Thomas P. McKenzie, councilmen agreed to consider trading some property owned by the city for the lot in the proposed open space zone.

City lands mentioned were two parcels on Sausalito Boulevard and an area across from Central School on Bee Street.

Councilmen authorized McKenzie to obtain appraisals on the properties before a trade is seriously discussed. The trade and the moratorium proposal will be considered at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, when councilmen also are to discuss plans by the Golden Gate Bridge District for a new downtown ferry terminal.

Sausalito To Remove Planters

Sausalito city councilman Sally Stanford tasted sweet victory last night in her protracted struggle to rid the city of its controversial planter boxes, which have stirred furious debate since they were installed along downtown Bridgeway in 1970 when the city banned parking on that portion of the street.

Armed with a recommendation from the city traffic committee that the boxes be carted away, Miss Stanford declared with obvious satisfaction: "I make a motion that we remove the planter boxes tomorrow morning."

Following was a unanimous vote that "those coffins," as Miss Stanford has been one to describe them, be removed by city crews as soon as possible.

The wooden boxes, whose plant life over the years has been replaced by trash and tourists seeking a seat to gobble fish and chips, will be put up for sale.

They will be replaced by a five-foot bicycle path. The path will be striped in white and the curb painted red to prevent auto parking.

Restaurant Wins Fight For Wine

Riding on a wave of overwhelming public support, Soupcon restaurant in Sausalito last night won unanimous approval from the city council to serve beer and wine with its highly touted dinners.

In her fight to overturn a planning commission decision denying a permit to serve the alcoholic beverages, Soupcon owner Jackie Cook had in her corner a petition signed by 1,000 residents, many of whom packed the auditorium at Central School to deliver impassioned pleas in her behalf.

Tiny Soupcon, located at 49 Caledonia Street, was ordered by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board four months ago to cease serving beer and wine without a license, which it had done since opening more than three years ago. "Since that date business has fallen off to a degree which makes it impossible to operate Soupcon as a quality restaurant much longer," wrote Mrs. Cook in a letter to the council.

Accompanying the petition were numerous letters of support from varied segments of the community, from dining columnist Jack Shelton to a minister and housewives.

Mrs. Cook was lauded for operating "a civilized eating establishment" that provides "a meeting place for the community," as well as giving many Sausalito young people employment, training and guidance.

The Hamburger Founding Home Will Be Axed

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Louis' Lunch, reputed founding place of the hamburger sandwich, must leave its present location by the end of the month.

Proprietor Kenneth Lassen says the tiny restaurant, 79 years old, may therefore go out of business.

The order to vacate is intended to clear the way for erection of a $12 million, 14-story medical center.

Park Reopening Seen Possible After Impassioned Youth Plea

Sausalito's Vina Del Mar Park, long closed to the public, may be opening again soon as a result of a display of youth power at last night's meeting of the city council.

A group of five children, led by 11-year-old Lauren Gonzales, delivered an articulate proposal for opening the tiny downtown park, closed several years ago by the city to prevent it being overrun and destroyed by hordes of seasonal visitors.

Dark-haired Lauren, standing on Mayor Evert H. Heynneman's chair, announced that while "hippies and tourists may wreck it," the park should be opened at least on a trial basis.

They described the park as "the most beautiful part of Sausalito," and the only place for children who don't live on the hillsides to play.

They also proposed to plant flowers and carry out cleanup duties every three weeks. "If you were closer I'd kiss you," said Heynneman after Lauren, a sixth grade student, had returned to her seat in the audience.

A motion by councilman Violeta Autumn to open the park only on weekdays died for lack of a second, her colleagues preferring to refer the matter to the parks and recreation commission and city staff for their recommendations. The park issue will be considered by the council at its May 7 session.

The Sausalito City Council also

CONDOMINIUMS — Postponed for four weeks a decision on a request by Kettco Management Corp. to convert its 78-unit anchorage apartments on Butte Street to condominiums. During the delay, an ordinance is to be prepared that sets guidelines for granting such conversions in the future.

PARKING — Denied on a 3-2 vote, Sally Stanford and Leonard F. Rappa dissenting, a request by William Charles that parking requirements accompanying conversion of the Glen Five and Ten on Princess Street to a restaurant and shops be waived.

POSTPONED — Continued consideration of a planned traffic study for waterfront streets, a taxi cab rate hike request and other items on last night's agenda until 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in council chambers on Bridgeway.

An Inducement Service Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation to raise the pay of doctors and dentists in the armed forces as an inducement for them to make the military a career passed the House yesterday on a 291-to-106 vote.

Before final passage the House beat back amendments to exclude dentists from the higher pay and to include psychologists and podiatrists.

The bill, which passed the Senate last December with dentists, optometrists and veterinarians excluded, must now go back to the Senate for acceptance or further changes.

RINGMASTER — Sen. Hubert Humphrey, decked out in a sequined jacket, was honorary ringmaster last night as he directed the opening of the Ringling Brothers circus in Washington, where it will play for a month.

Cotati Water Bond Vote Scheduled For November

A bond issue to finance critically needed water improvements will be placed on the Nov. 5 general election ballot, the Cotati City Council decided unanimously last night.

The amount of the bonds is not yet known, City Mgr. Robert A. Switzer told the council, because the city must first determine whether the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development will assist with a grant.

"But we're going to need the bond issue regardless of whether we get any federal money," councilman Annette Lombardi said, noting that the early decision will aid in planning an election campaign.

Freshman councilman Alan C. Stansbury was appointed to head a citizen's committee charged with developing a strategy for improving the outdated city water system, which was built to serve 1,000 residents and now provides for about 1,500.

Because Cotati's mains and pump are inadequate, the city faces a summer water shortage.

Switzer recommended that any bond issue placed on the ballot be for the sole purpose of replacing inadequate water lines and for other improvements which "would provide additional capacity and system reliability."

The citizens committee, which is to include members of local civic and business organizations, will be selected during the coming two weeks.

In a related move, the council awarded a contract to the Bartley Pump Co., which submitted a low bid of $17,890 for upgrading the city's old well.

While Cotati now receives its water from the Sonoma County Water Agency, the well is being reactivated as an emergency backup measure to deal with the coming summer shortage.

Councilmen also adopted an ordinance setting penalties for illegal water connections. Switzer said the ordinance is aimed at construction companies, which in the past have often filled their tank trucks from municipal lines without city permission.

Kite Derby Set

Cub Scouts of the Marin Council will participate in a countywide kite derby Saturday at 1 p.m. at Marin Civic Center grounds.

Cotati Says No To Plan For Library

Cotati city councilmen, convinced they shouldn't pay for something they can get free, last night declined to participate in a library district with Rohnert Park and Sonoma County.

A committee in Rohnert Park has begun an effort to build a library there, and Cotati was asked to participate.

Councilman Annette Lombardi, who met with the Rohnert Park group recently, said it has selected a site in northern Rohnert Park.

Since the structure will be part of the county library system, she said, all Sonoma residents, including Cotatians, will be able to use it at no charge.

And, she said, since Cotati would be only a minority participant in financing it, its location would be chosen by Rohnert Park regardless of its convenience to Cotati residents.

Miss Lombardi said Cotati residents and other Sonomans will help pay for the library indirectly since county funds will be used in its construction.

The council voted unanimously to notify the Rohnert Park committee of Cotati's intention to stay on the sidelines.

The Cotati City Council also:

FEES — Directed staff to review subdivision regulations or a more equitable method of assessing open space and recreational fees than the present system, presently designed for single-family districts and creating excessive fees for multiple-unit developments because based on the number of units planned for each site.

CONTEST — Authorized a contest for youths to design a shoulder patch for the Cotati Police Department.

MEMORIAL — Revoked last week's tentative decision to rename Water Street in honor of late planning commission member Barney Nestor. Nestor's family indicated they would rather keep the original name intact.

APPOINTMENTS — Postponed naming a planning commissioner and a member of the county general plan transportation advisory committee because no one applied for the positions.

SALARIES — Met in closed session to review city job classifications and discuss salary negotiations with the City Employees of Cotati Association and the Cotati Police Officers Association.

ADJOURNMENT — Set the next regular council meeting for 7:30 p.m. April 16.

Novato Near Agreement On Old Home Leases For Restoration

Councilmen last night approved the drawing up of proposed leases for the buildings which stand along what will be a main entrance to the city when the Highway 101 bypass is completed.

Landmark Enterprises, represented by Paul Frank and architect William Kelly, requested a 30-year lease of the Carlisle house at DeLong and Reichert avenues at $1 a year.

Frank said the partnership would restore the old Victorian style home at a cost of $40,000 and work with the Novato Civic Foundation on development of adjacent parcels, the old postmaster's house and the Silva house.

Herbert W. Cook Jr., president of the Novato Civic Foundation, urged that renovation get under way and said it would give a boost to the oldtown area. He said, "Novato has a big need for a place for civic organizations to meet."

Councilmen David E. Milano, Fred F. Ruegg and Gail M. Wilhelm were appointed as a subcommittee to meet with the foundation and Frank on lease details and report back.

Councilmen also announced their intent to lease the postmaster's house and Silva house to the foundation at $1 a year "as long as the buildings are for public use."

The Novato City Council also:

YOUTH RECREATION — Agreed that an effort be made to determine the recreation needs of Novato teenagers and that this be studied by existing youth interest groups in the community.

ARCHERY RANGE — Voted to hold a public hearing, date not set, on the request of the Northwoods Bowmen Club to have an indoor archery range at a metal barn at the former Oliva Ranch, now Parkhaven Townhouses. Milano and Ruegg, who said the activity would be hazardous in the residential area, voted to deny the request, but were on the short end of a 2-to-3 vote.

CITY-COUNCIL PLANNING — Appointed Milano city representative to the City-County Planning Council and Ruegg as alternate.

MENTAL FACILITIES — Continued until 8 p.m. Tuesday adoption of an ordinance wich would permit "mental facilities" for treatment and care in commercial, industrial and professional-administrative districts, but not in residential districts. Ruegg opposed the continuance.

WASTE COLLECTION — Asked the Novato Sanitary District to consider amending its waste collection ordinance to differentiate between "refuse" and recyclables." The ordinance prohibits the collection of any waste including recyclable items by anyone but the district's franchise holder, Novato Disposal Service.

COUNCIL MEETINGS — Unanimously adopted an ordinance setting council meetings four Tuesdays a month, with general business on first and third Tuesdays and public hearings on second and fourth Tuesdays at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

TRAFFIC ENFORCEMENT — Voted to retain two police officer posts for traffic enforcement, originally staffed as part of a state traffic grant which will expire May 21.

TRAFFIC SAFETY — Authorized a stop sign for eastbound traffic at Indian Valley Road and prohibited parking along the road between Hill Road and Arthur Street.

INDIAN VALLEY COLLEGES — Favored annexation of the 330-acre Indian Valley Colleges campus at the end of Ignacio Boulevard to the city and agreed to apply to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission for annexation.

DE LONG AVENUE — Approved plans for widening and improving De Long Avenue from Redwood Highway to Reichert Avenue, estimated to cost $230,000, and set bid opening April 24.

TAMALPAIS PROJECT — Set 8 p.m. April 23 at the Novato Community House for a public hearing on property owner assessments resulting from the Tamalpais Avenue reconstruction project.

CLEANUP GRANT — Received notice the city can receive up to $1,500 in matching funds from the California Environmental Protection program for its cleanup campaign April 27 and May 4.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 8 a.m. Saturday at Novato City Hall to interview candidates for city manager.

Novato Mayor's District Election Idea Tossed Out

Novato Mayor David Price Jones last night tossed in the idea of having councilmen elected by districts and fellow councilmen tossed it out.

Jones said having the district system might result in more responsive government, trim campaign expenses and "perhaps tend to tone down divisiveness" in the community.

Councilmen are now elected at large and Jones asked the council if it wanted a staff study on switching to five councilmen elected by districts "and possibly a couple at large."

Councilman Fred F. Ruegg said "going by districts would Balkanize the city" and "the problems we have are basically citywide."

Councilman Dorothy P. Young said, "If we were segregated by various districts, we would try to benefit our districts and the rest of Novato would suffer. If we each try to work for Novato as a whole, it will be better for Novato as a whole."

Councilman David E. Milano commented, "I think the community is just too small for districts."

After the comments, Jones said, "I don't think there is any support for a report on it at this time."

'The Sting' Takes Seven Oscars As Demons Dumped

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Sting," which opened last year to mixed reviews, won seven Academy Awards, including Best Picture of 1973, last night. Glenda Jackson and Jack Lemmon won the top acting prizes.

The annual Oscars presentation show in the Music Center was interrupted briefly by a male streaker, who ran nude across the stage in view of millions watching television, just before Elizabeth Taylor announced the best picture award.

Lemmon, who portrayed a guilt-ridden businessman in "Save The Tiger," became the first actor to win Oscars for both best actor and best supporting actor. He won best supporting actor in 1955 for "Mr. Roberts." Helen Hayes holds both awards for actresses.

Miss Jackson picked up her second Oscar for a comedy performance in "A Touch of Class," in which she portrayed a worldly London divorcee who had an affair with a married American.

"The Exorcist," a box office smash about demonic possession, had been a favorite, but it took only two awards—for sound and screenplay from another medium.

Ten-year-old Tatum O'Neal, who played a guileful con girl in "Paper Moon," was named best supporting actress and John Houseman, the intellectually demanding law school professor of "The Paper Chase," was named best supporting actor.

"The Sting," starring Paul Newman and Robert Redford, marked the first time Universal Pictures had won the Academy Award for best picture since "All Quiet on the Western Front" in 1927.

The nationally televised ceremony was briefly interupted by a streaker—a nude man who dashed across the stage as David Niven was introducing Elizabeth Taylor for the finale of the evening, the announcement of the best picture.

Some winners in recent years, such as George C. Scott and Marlon Brando, have turned their backs on the Oscar, criticized its value or used the occasion, as Brando did last year, to promote a cause.

"In recent years especially, there has been a great deal of criticism about this award, and probably a great deal of that criticism is justified," Lemmon said in his acceptance speech.

"I would just like to say that whether it is justified or not, it is one hell of an honor, and I am thrilled."

Niven joined fellow hosts Burt Reynolds and John Houston in also coming to the defense of the Oscar.

"The Sting," with Paul Newman and Robert Redford as a pair of con men in the Depression, avenging a friend's murder by fleecing a rich gangster out of a fortune, took the Oscars for best picture, director (George Roy Hill, original score and adaptation (Marvin Hamlisch), original screenplay (David S. Ward), costuming (Edith Head), film editing (William Reynolds) and art direction (Henry Bumstead, set dectorator, James Payne).

Hamlisch was hailed as the second biggest winner, taking three Oscars in one night, believed to be an unprecedented feat. He won for all three musical categories, sharing "best song" honors with lyricists Alan and Marilyn Bergman for "The Way We Were," and taking the best original score award for the same song, in addition to his Oscar for the "Sting" theme.

"Day for Night," a French movie about making a movie, won the best foreign film oscar.

Lemmon, who won the best supporting actor award in 1955 for "Mr. Roberts," had been nominated four times for the best actor award before winning it last night. He joked that he was still carrying the acceptance speech he wrote when he was nominated in 1959 for "Some Like It Hot."

Houseman's win came on his first nomination—and second appearance—as an actor, but he was nominated in 1953 in his usual role as producer for making "Julius Caesar."

House Saved

POCOMOKE CITY, Md. (AP) — By a 4-3 vote, a 100-year-old Victorian house has survived efforts to raze it and turn it into a parking lot. About 70 per cent of Pocomoke City's 1,398 registered voters showed up at the polls yesterday to approve, by a 413-324 margin.

Fairfax Trustees Pass Policy On Bargaining With Employees

Pending legislation on public employee collective bargaining should give school district employees the right to binding arbitration if strikes are outlawed, Fairfax School District trustees voted last night.

The trustees adopted a lengthy position statement on the pending bills and the board's general philosophy on handling district labor problems, Hammond reported.

The trustees, Hammond said, felt bills should be more specific about the rights of teachers, because lumping them in with "all public employees is too broad."

The adopted policy statement approves the idea of exclusive representation for district employees, calls for spelling out the rights to arbitration on salaries, fringe benefits, hours and grievance procedures, and asks that district boards be given the option of open or closed negotiating sessions.

The legislation should give district employees the right to binding arbitration if strikes are outlawed, the board decided.

The Fairfax School District board also:

BOND ISSUE — Learned that the district's $750,000 bond proposal on the June primary ballot will be known as Measure H. The bond proposal would finance a multi-use room and community center at White Hill School.

REORGANIZATION — On Hammond's recommendation, dropped the idea of reorganizing classes between Central School and Deer Park School, pending the expected closing of Central School due to rising costs and declining enrollment. Hammond reported that district enrollment last week was 920, compared to 935 in January.

END OF YEAR — Approved a request from the Fairfax Teachers Association to have a teachers' work day rather than classes on the last day of school in June. The approval is contingent to students not losing any other class days, because the district was reduced to the state minimum of 175 class days by last night's action.

MERCHANTS — Delegated Trustee Laurence G. Hermann and Hammond to meet April 23 with the newly formed Fairfax Merchants and Businessmen's Association, which wants to discuss plans for the Central School site after the school is closed.

SEMINAR — Approved holding a seminar April 17 at Manor School, for Fairfax teachers to tell other districts' staffs about Fairfax's participation in the so-called Santa Monica plan. It is a state-sponsored experiment in teaching exceptional children through ungraded work in the regular classrooms.

ADJOURNED — To 7:45 p.m. April 16 in White Hill School.

Eyesore Gone

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The developers of Crown Center, a 50-building urban development project, cured this city's worst eyesore — a monstrosity known as "Signboard Hill" — by draping an elegant hotel on the slope where a forest of billboards once flourished. The hill is now considered one of Kansas City's best tourist sights.

Easter Brunch In Toasted Buttercups

Toasted buttercups holding pieces of ham and mushrooms done up tastefully in a well seasoned Monterey jack cheese sauce, is a great idea for an Easter brunch. The recipe makes four servings but it is easy to multiply if you're inviting a group. This entree holds up well in a chafing dish for buffet service too.

The sauce starts out with a butter, flour and milk base and is seasoned with Dijon style mustard. Both jack cheese and parmesan cheese go in to give a balance of contrasting flavors for the strips of ham and mushroom caps.

You may have guessed, this entree is almost like an open face sandwich. Any kind of sliced bread — whole wheat, rye or white — can be used for making the buttercups. Spread crust trimmed slices of bread with butter and sprinkle with grated parmesan cheese. Then carefully press them into muffin cups so the four corners form points. They bake in a hot oven in eight minutes.

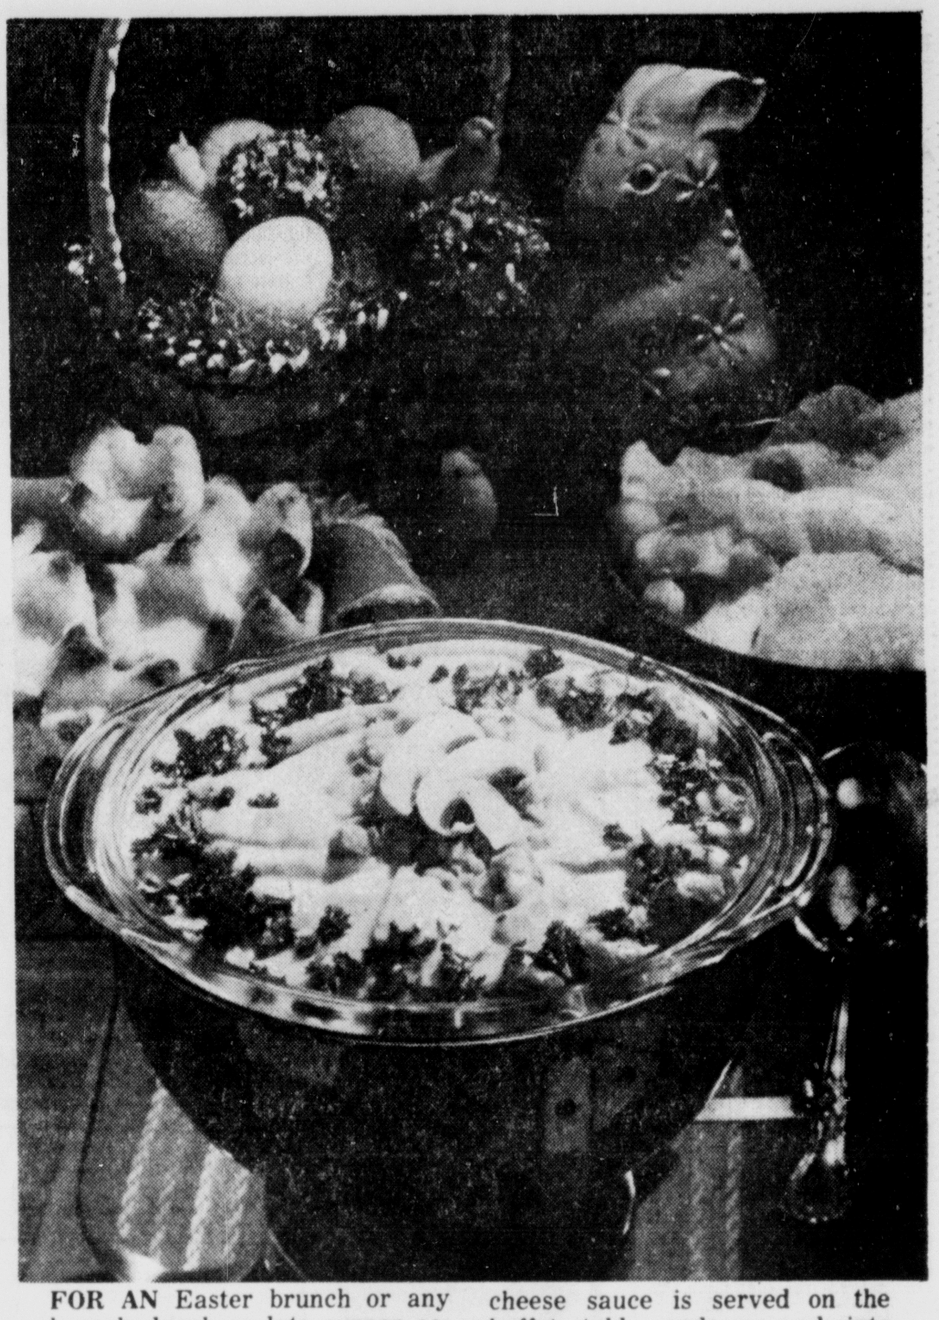
BRUNCH HAM IN BUTTERCUPS

- 8 ounces cooked ham
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon prepared Dijon style mustard
- 1 cup milk
- ¼ teaspooon salt
- 1 cup grated Monterey jack cheese
- ¼ cup grated parmesan cheese
- 1 (6-ounce) can mushroom caps

Toasted Buttercups

Sliver ham. Melt butter and blend in flour and mustard. Stir in milk and salt. Cook, stirring, over medium heat until sauce thickens and comes to boil. Stir in cheeses, ham and mushrooms. Heat through. Spoon into Buttercups. Makes four servings.

Toasted Buttercups: Butter eight slices bread (crusts trimmed). Sprinkle with two tablespoons grated parmesan cheese. Press each slice gently into a muffin cup. Bake in 425-degree oven eight minutes.



FOR AN Easter brunch or any brunch, lunch or late supper occasion, this entree of ham and mushrooms in a Monterey jack cheese sauce is served on the buffet table and spooned into toasted cups.

SLICE CROSSWISE to the grain a half pound of beef top or bottom round to create Beef Burritos for two. The complete meal can be prepared in about half an hour.

BEEF BURRITOS

Excellent Dish For Just Two

This tempting recipe for beef burritos was designed specially for those who face the challenge of cooking interesting meals for two people. The measurements for the ingredients are such that you will not end up with a refrigerator full of leftovers.

It makes a satisfying, quick and easy meal that can be prepared in less than half an hour.

The filling for the tortillas starts out with a half pound of beef top or bottom round. This flavorful cut of beef is quick cooking when you slice it crosswise to the grain into thin strips. Stir fry the beef bites just three minutes, add the vegetables and continue cooking another three minutes.

In goes a can of green chili salsa and the filling is ready by the time the tortillas are heated. Add the traditional garnishes and accompany with a bit of rice or canned chili beans or refried beans if you want a more substantial menu.

BEEF BURRITOS

- ½ pound beef top or bottom round
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 1 small green pepper, chopped
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 (7-ounce) can green chili salsa
- 1 avocado
- Dairy sour cream
- 4 flour tortillas

Slice beef crosswise to grain into thin strips. Cut strips into 1-inch pieces. Sprinkle with salt and stir fry in hot oil in large skillet three minutes. Add green pepper and onion and continue stir frying three minutes longer. Stir in salsa and heat through. Mash avocado or puree in electric blender.

Mix in small amount of sour cream. Heat tortillas between damp paper towels in 350 degree oven three to five minutes or until steaming.

Spoon beef mixture in center of tortillas, roll up and place on serving plates. Pipe or spoon avocado mixture on top. Garnish with shredded iceberg lettuce, tomato slices and ripe olives. Makes two servings.

Indonesian Lamb Chops With Zing

To put zing into a spring menu, bring a platter of Indonesian lamb chops to the table.

Brushed while broiling with a sauce of apricot nectar sparked with curry powder and garlic, the chops acquire an intriguing foreign flavor accent.

Lamb offers menu variety, yet cooks may overlook this meat for everyday meals because they think only in terms of a leg or rib or loin chops. Too often shoulder chops, shanks and riblets are overlooked, although these less familiar cuts are good economical buys.

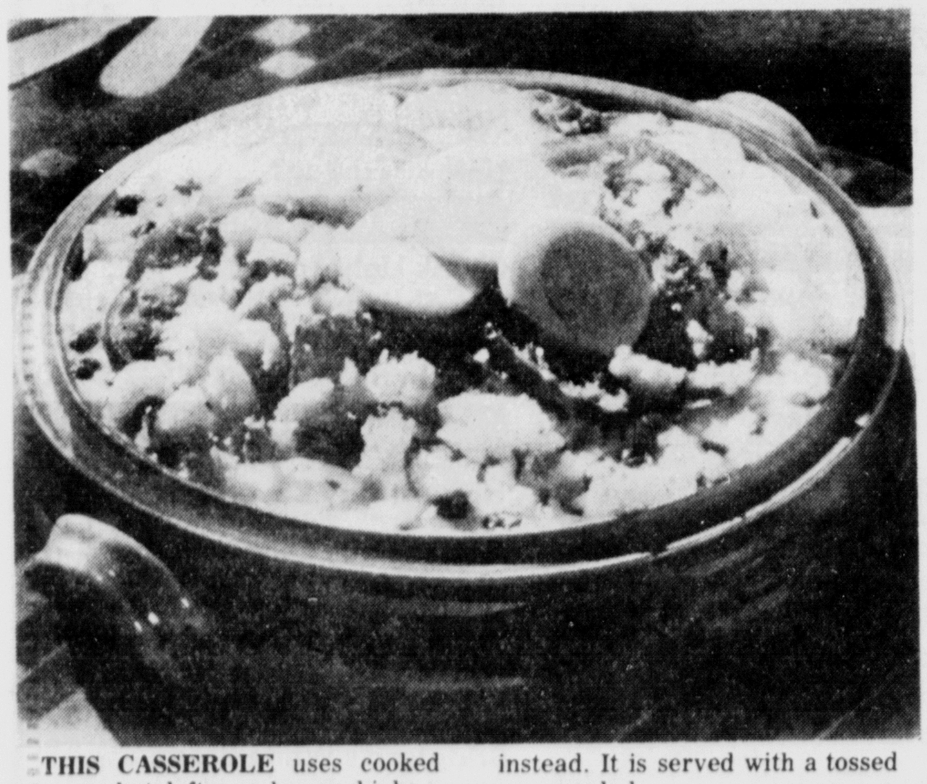
INDONESIAN LAMB CHOPS

- 4 lamb arm or blade chops, cut 1 inch thick
- ¾ cup apricot nectar
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- ¼ teaspoon garlic salt
- Salt
- Pepper

Combine apricot nectar, curry powder and garlic salt and cook slowly five minutes, stirring constantly. Place chops on broiler rack so top of meat is two to three inches from heat, brush with apricot sauce and broil five minutes. Season chops with salt and pepper, turn, brush with apricot sauce and broil second side five to seven minutes or until done. Makes four servings.

With A Sauce

If leftover sliced roast turkey from the freezer is dry, serve it with a cheese sauce. The turkey may be heated in a double boiler or tightly wrapped in foil in the oven.



THIS CASSEROLE uses cooked peas, but leftover ham, chicken, fish or vegetables may be used instead. It is served with a tossed green salad.

Keep Tight Cover On Cottage Cheese

Always keep cottage cheese tightly covered in the refrigerator to prevent it from picking up odors and developing off flavors.

Creamed cottage cheese should not be frozen because when it is thawed it tends to separate and this damages its texture and consistency.

Iceberg Slaw

Acts As Binder

Evaporated milk may be used undiluted as a substitute for egg in a meatloaf mixture. The milk, like the egg, acts as a binder.

A One-Dish Dinner With All Ingredients

Seldom is there one recipe that puts almost everything of "what we should eat" into one appetizing main dish, but here it is: a low-cost casserole of bread, butter, cheese, eggs, peas and tomatoes, layered and baked in a savory sauce until it is golden-brown.

EGG ROUND-UP CASSEROLE

- 1 quart coarse, soft bread crumbs
- 1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
- ½ cup melted butter or margarine
- ½ cup chopped onion
- ½ cup sifted flour
- 3 cups milk
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 teaspoon savory, crumbled
- 1 tablespoon white wine vinegar
- 6 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
- 1 cup cooked peas
- 2 tomatoes, thinly sliced

Mix crumbs, cheese and one-fourth cup butter together lightly. Arrange half the mixture in even layer over bottom of two-quart baking dish (or pan) and toast in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 10 minutes while preparing sauce. Meanwhile, saute onion until soft, but not browned, in remaining one-fourth cup butter. Stir in flour. Gradually blend in milk; add salt, mustard and savory. Cook, stirring, until sauce boils and thickens. Remove from heat, stir in vinegar, and fold in eggs. Alternate layers of peas and creamed eggs over baked crumb layer. Top with sliced tomatoes, and sprinkle with remaining cheese crumbs. Bake, slightly below oven center, at 350 degrees about 35 minutes, until hot and well browned on top. Makes six generous servings.

Variation: Use any cooked vegetable (or a combination) in place of peas. Add bits of cooked ham, chicken, turkey, or cooked shrimp or a can of drained tuna to the egg sauce.

Advice To Shoppers Stockpiling Is Expensive

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — If the recent government forecast of a 12 to 16 per cent increase in retail food prices this year tempts you to hoard — don't.

Indiscriminate stockpiling can be doubly expensive if the food spoils or loses quality and-or nutritives during long storage at too warm a temperature.

Dry staples such as white and parboiled rice, dried beans and other dried vegetables and canned foods keep well for up to a year under certain conditions, say the Cornell and Michigan State University extension services.

There's the catch. Very few houses and apartments have a dry storage area whose temperature never rises above 70 degrees Fahrenheit. This is the recommended storage climate for food in cans or other tightly covered rigid containers made from metal, glass or plastic.

THE FOLLOWING suggestions for storing frequently used food products is from the extension services:

Transfer boxed or bagged foods to tightly covered rigid containers. This allows you to check them first for the presence of insects that can develop in sealed bags or boxes of flour and other cereal products mishandled at a warehouse or retail store.

Date package or can labels or storage containers before you put the groceries away, and always use the oldest first.

Raw white rice and parboiled white rice keep well for up to two years under ideal conditions but flavored rice mixes, no more than six months, and brown rice, no more than two months. Seasonings in the mixes can lose flavor and-or attract insects. The natural fat content in the outer layer of brown rice can develop an off-flavor. For longer storage of these products, refrigeration is recommended.

Macaroni products, including noodles, can be stored up to two years.

Dried beans and other dried vegetables keep well for as long as a year but they tend to dry out even more. When this happens, longer cooking is necessary.

Unflavored dried potatoes have a recommended storage time of six to 12 months, but flavored mixes, only about six months.

Unopened canned foods should keep well up to a year in a cool, dry spot.

FATS AND oils need protection from light and air. Otherwise, they oxidize like wine, turn rancid and develop off flavors. Partly filled bottles should be decanted into small ones that can be filled to the top for long storage.

White flour should keep well for about six to eight months at cool room temperature but whole wheat and other whole grain flours should be refrigerated to keep their fat content from developing off flavors.

Don't store any food on a high shelf. Even in a cool room, heat rises and groceries kept there may be well above the temperatures at counter level or below.

How To Put Carrots To The Best Use

When you buy carrots in bulk or when the grade is not shown on the package, look for well formed, smooth, orange to orange-red carrots. Carrots should be firm with well trimmed tops. Avoid carrots that are flabby or shriveled or those with large green areas (sunburn) at the top.

Also avoid topped carrots that have new top growth (green shoots on the top) and bunched carrots that have yellow tops.

Carrots can be stored in the vegetable bin of your refrigerator for three to four weeks. Large carrots are best for shredding. Smaller, younger carrots are good for eating raw or cooking.

BAKED

For variety, try baking carrots, particularly when you are planning an oven meal. Cut the carrots in half and place them in a casserole with 1/4 cup water, two or three tablespoons butter or margarine, and a sprinkle of salt and pepper. Cover the casserole and bake at 375 for 45 minutes, or until carrots are tender. Whole carrots also may be baked with roasted meats, adding them in the last hour or so before the meat is done.

Here are some carrot ideas:

CARROT SOUP

3 cups sliced fresh carrots
1 cup diced fresh potatoes
6 cups chicken stock
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground mace
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
2 tablespoons butter
Chopped parsley
Cooked carrot coins

Cook carrots and potatoes in stock until they are tender, about 25 minutes. Push through a sieve. Add seasonings and butter. Serve hot, garnished with parsley and a few cooked carrot coins. Makes six servings.

CARROTS ALLA NAPOLI

16 medium-sized carrots
½ inch boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon black pepper
½ teaspoon oregano leaves
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ cup olive oil
2 tablespoons wine vinegar

Wash and scrape carrots. Cut into slices half-inch thick. Place in saucepan with boiling water and half-teaspoon salt. Cover and cook 10 minutes or until tender. Drain well. Place in a bowl with remaining ingredients. Marinate 12 hours or overnight before serving. Serve hot or cold. Makes five cups.

CELESTIAL CARROT SALAD

2 cups carrots, grated
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ cup miniature marshmallows
1 8-oz. can pineapple tidbits or mandarin oranges, drained
1 tablespoon honey
¼ teaspoon mace or nutmeg
½ cup plain yogurt or sour cream
¼ cup shredded coconut, optional

Combine grated carrots, lemon juice and salt. Add marshmallows and fruit. Blend honey and mace or nutmeg with yogurt or sour cream. Toss lightly with carrot mixture and coconut. Chill well. Makes four to six servings.

There's No Lack Of Love At Marin Infant Center

By JOAN LISETOR

The Marin Infant Center at Isabel Cook School in San Anselmo is Marin's first day care center for children under 2 years old.

Director of the center, which opened in December, is Ethel Seiderman of San Anselmo, who is also director of the Fairfax-San Anselmo Children's Center at Yolansdale School in San Anselmo.

Fifteen babies are enrolled, some part-time, so there are never more than 10 babies at a time, Mrs. Seiderman explained. Staff ratio is one adult to each child.

The center has a low keyed, mellow atmosphere. Some of the children crawl around playing with toys, while others are held and played with and some nap.

"We have children from 10 weeks to 2 years old, but we would take them younger," Mrs. Seiderman said. "I would take them at 1 month. We seem to have a cluster of 1 to 2-year-olds."

THE CENTER has a waiting list which includes babies not yet born. Preference is given to children from low income families, those whose parents have received welfare or those whose parents require day care in order to work or continue in a training program.

The babies arrive in their own clothes and are changed into clothing the center provides.

"The clothes we dress them in are certainly not institutional type clothes. They are just like what parents would put on them at home," Mrs. Seiderman said. "The only reason we change their clothes is so we don't spend all of our energy remembering whose clothes and whose diapers are whose."

The laundry is done by staff members, who take it home at night.

The center's first priority is to give warmth and nurturing to the babies, Mrs. Seiderman said, but self awareness and educational opportunities are also offered.

Toys are scattered throughout the room, so the crawlers can explore. Teachers bring out the educational toys, and work with them with such toys as puzzles, peg boards, crayons, musical instruments and other toys that "wake the senses."

"THERE IS AN emphasis on beginning muscle awareness," Mrs. Seiderman explained, "also on one's space and how to use it.

A balance board with a connecting bridge and stairs was designed and built for the center by College of Marin instructor Tron Bykle and a group of his students in the art department at the college.

"The balance board teaches them to solve problems and gives them the sense of what happens with their bodies and how to deal with change. The stairs and ramp offer an interesting environment, and when the bridge is connected they have to decide whether to go over or under it," Mrs. Seiderman said.

Mrs. Seiderman believes a child, no matter how young, needs some time for himself.

"There has to be a balance to insure privacy and at the same time allow interaction with the other children. Some people believe a playpen limits a child's perimeter, but we use them because they allow the child a place to relax, so he is not wheeling and dealing for toys every minute and can focus on his own thing," she said.

The babies receive a "total day experience," Mrs. Siederman said, "if someone is going to the store we put two of them in our twin stroller, and they go along. When the weather is nice we take them out to the park."

THE BABIES also receive medical attention. Pediatric nurse practitioner Esther Thompson and pediatrician Dr. Hannah Hochstaedter make frequent visits to the center to check the children's health.

In addition to the staff, the center has volunteers, which include women from the community, students at College of Marin and Sir Francis Drake High School and even a few of the sixth graders from Isabel Cook School, who "poke their heads in the door at lunch time."

The tiny babies are pretty much on their own schedules. The older ones have a little more of a routine for their meals and naps. We try to get them all down at the same time for the staff can 'crash' for half an hour," Mrs. Seiderman said.

"I like the grandmothers to come. Day care sounds so ominous to them, that I tell the mothers, 'Let them see what it is.' I want them to invite their pediatricians. We're an unknown unless somebody comes through the door. People have stereotypes about the care of babies.

"This is a joyful place to be around, happy and needs are met. The babies have good feelings toward each other. Often their first words are the names of other children at the center."

HELEN HELP US!

He'd Kick The Cigarette Habit If It Would Help His Sex Life

DEAR HELEN:

Is it true that giving up cigarettes increases your interest and ability, sexwise? I might even kick the three-pack-a-day habit if it would help my waning lovelife. — MAN WITH A DREAM

DEAR MAN:

Nothing ventured, nothing gained. . . And you'll gain a lot by kicking the cigarette habit, even if it doesn't do miracles for your lovelife.

About those miracles: they're a possible dream. Many correspondents have told me of restored interest in sex, once the smoke screen lifts. I don't know whether this is due to "withdrawal nerves" (reach for your wife instead of a sweet?); a more responsive mate (cigarette breath is a turn-off, you know); enhanced appreciation of almost everything; or some kind of chemical reaction within your brain. . . or maybe it's a combination of all four. . . but it happens.

So try it! What have you got to lose but a habit you'd rather not have? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

A new city law here prohibits smoking in libraries, theaters, lecture halls, buses, retail stores, public meetings, even restaurants except in designated areas.

Since smoke in these places only bothers those who don't indulge, I'd say this is discrimination. Smoking constitutes a nuisance to anti-tobacco people, but I can't believe it is much of a health hazard, with proper ventilation.

If this smoking-ban sticks, then why can't men continue the ban against women in formerly "for males only" bars and clubs? We could use the same argument: women are nuisances here, and they could even be a health hazard (to those who shouldn't indulge because of marriage, or something). — FAIR'S FAIR

DEAR F.F.:

NOW'll get you for that!

For shame, comparing women to cigarettes. . . although I (a nonsmoker) sorta agree with you that overrigid city ordinances against smoking can cause more problems than they solve. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There's a lot of talk these days about the high cost of gas. But lemme tell you: every Friday I operate "wheels" that set me back about $50 per mile: the supermarket grocery cart!

When I see the food bills, I know we're in an inflation, but when I try to pay them, I realize this family is in the midst of a depression.

My folks told me that during the Great Depression, bread sold for less than 10 cents a loaf, and you could sometimes get hamburger two pounds for 35 cents. If this is the case, I'm pulling for another Depression, like right now! — BUDGET-BUSTED

DEAR B.B.:

Your folks didn't tell you, perhaps, that during the Great Depression men worked for $100 a month — if they were lucky — and the beginning wage for secretaries was under $20 a week, if they could find a job, which wasn't likely. Don't wish that on us!

(But hope inflation ends its wild climb before we all go budget-crazy.) — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH A. LUNNY III
The former Diane Rae Slaby

(Photo by Richard Miller)

Diane Rae Slaby Weds Joseph A. Lunny III

Diane Rae Slaby of San Anselmo became the bride of Joseph Anthony Lunny III of Inverness in a ceremony at St. Rita's Church in Fairfax on March 23.

After a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe for skiing, the couple will live in Inverness.

For the nuptials Michele Geoffrion was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Ginny and Chrissy Lunny, Joseph's sisters; and Ann Giocomini and Debbie Slaby, sister of the bride.

Robert Kehoe served as best man. The guests were ushered to seats by Jerry Rupiper, Kevin Donohoe, Bill Slaby, Diane's brother; and Kevin Lunny, Joseph's brother.

The reception followed at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Diane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Slaby of San Anselmo. She is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and the College of Marin and is a dental assistant in a San Anselmo dental office.

Joseph is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Lunny Jr. of the RCA Ranch at Inverness and is also the brother of Carol and Bobby Lunny.

Joseph was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and attended the College of Marin.

Benefit Nets $4,000 For Brain Fund

The Children's Brain Diseases Foundation realized $4,000 from the benefit bay cruise and buffet supper given March 24.

The foundation was started six years ago by Dr. and Mrs. J. Alfred Rider of Mill Valley. All funds go to research. Through the foundation's efforts, progress has been made in the diagnosis and cause of Batten's Disease, an enzyme deficiency illness fatal to young victims who rarely live beyond 15 years of age.

Another event which will benefit the Children's Brain Diseases Foundation is the reception to be sponsored by Xi Alpha Xi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi service sorority following the Marin Symphony Sampler program at 8 p.m. April 23 at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

Mrs. Estelle Radovich of Mill Valley is chairman.

The chapter has also reserved blocks of seats for the performance. It selects a cause to benefit from an annual fund raising event, and this year has chosen to give the proceeds to the foundation.

Public Program Is Concerned With Learning

"Dynamic Learning and the Life Spectrum" is the theme of the fifth public program in the educational series sponsored by the Mill Valley Area Branch of the American Association of University Women, at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the library at Tamalpais High School.

Mill Valley residents from kindergarten to retirement home age have been captured in picture and sound to illustrate educational needs throughout a lifetime.

The educational series is presented in cooperation with Virgil S. Hollis, superintendent of Marin County Schools, and Dominican College Inservice program.

PARENT AND CHILD

Boredom Is Student's Worst Enemy

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

"Every adult has his own private collection of education philosophies. After all, every adult, whether or not he has been thoughtful about education in general, has certainly been introspective about the child that he was, and how that child came to be the person he is.

"Thus I have my own generalities about learning. I cannot believe that boring a child . . . is very fruitful.

"And the same goes for straitjackets and cruelty of all sorts. I cannot decide about intimidation; sometimes it may be helpful, but most likely only in occasional doses.

THE SPEAKER is Jerrold R. Zacharias.

For more than a decade Dr. Zacharias has worked relentlessly to make schooling less boring for millions of children. He is presently director and trustee of the Education Development Center in Newton, Mass.

Dr. Zacharias makes a very strong case against boredom. He puts it at the top of his list — above straitjackets, cruelty and intimidation. He may, of course, not mean that boredom is literally worse than cruelty, but in the context of most schools around the world, there is little cruelty, but an enormous amount of boredom.

Any teacher can be a bore, especially the reading teacher who declares, "The children are to memorize the story in all its detail; dramatizing it would be a waste of time."

What does such a teacher mean? To dramatize a story, every detail as well as motive and inherent feeling must be studied with care. Not only that, dramatization requires "internalizing" the story; that is, the pupil must not be an observer of the story but exist within it and it within him.

WORKING ON a dramatization can give impetus to drill and memorization that otherwise would be tedious and boring. The skilled teacher will motivate students to study the story from every aspect to be sure the characterizations reflect the author's intent.

Let's take the teaching of physics as another example. (Dr. Zacharias pioneered what is known as PSSC physics.) The dull teacher assigns reading, requires drawings, gives, does demonstrations and generally makes physics an abstract (and for many students an abstruse) science.

Turn the teaching method around. Pose solvable problems; let students work in pairs pooling talents and enthusiasm. Provide sufficient hints about rules and laws of physics that must be applied to solve the problems. Provide good tests.

Teachers must ask questions, too, in such a clever way that the student can find out for himself just what he might do next in solving the problem. It's his problem, and he has to be stimulated to try to find the solution.

The student learns no less physics (probably more) by this latter method. Furthermore he is not bored.

But what should parents do when they discover their children are "turning off" school because it is boring?

GO FIRST to the principal, then to the supervisors of instruction, to the superintendent and to the members of the school board.

Call for a review of teaching methods in the school district. Help develop a standard that teachers must meet to continue in classroom assignments. Bring in expert teachers to hold workshops and seminars. Hold film and discussion sessions to talk out ways to remove boredom from all school activities.

Make the issue a school district goal. Involve all civic and education-related groups. "No more boredom." What a worthy goal for the 1974-75 school year.

Conference On Children's Health Set

A "Sonoma County Congress on the Health of Children," a county-wide public conference, will be held April 20 at Santa Rosa Junior College.

The 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. conference, spearheaded by the Comprehensive Health Planning Association of Sonoma County, originated from suggestions made at sessions of the Santa Rosa Congress for Community progress, according to Helen Rudee, project committee chairman for planning and coordinating.

The focus of the conference will be on evaluation of the health needs of the children in the county, what constitutes good health care of children and how to coordinate needs with health care services now available, said Mrs. Rudee. She is also president of the local comprehensive health planning association and president of the Santa Rosa City Schools' board of trustees.

Mrs. Rudee said the congress hopes to attract parents and professionals in health care fields to the conference.

Organizations backing the Congress are the 14th District, California Parent-Teacher Association, Headstart, Redwood Empire Dental Association, Sonoma County Council for Community Services, the Sonoma County Department of Mental Health, Sonoma County Department of Public Health, Sonoma County Office of Education, Sonoma County Medical Society and Auxiliary and the Redwood Empire Pharmaceutical Association.

Sixth Grade Instructors Oppose Shift

Sixth grade teachers in the San Anselmo School District are not in favor of adding the sixth grades to a middle school at this time, the school district trustees were told last night.

A proposal had been made to add the grades to the two existing junior high schools, according to Dist. Supt. Frank R. Elliott. The sixth grade teachers, however, favor one large junior high school of only seventh and eighth grades, he said.

If the other plan does come about, Elliott said, the sixth grade teachers wanted policies and philosophies defined for such a school.

In the meantime, he said, the future of such programs hinges on the disposing of Isabel Cook School which is being phased out. Neither Hidden Valley nor Red Hill schools, where seventh and eighth grades are now housed have facilities to take on the whole junior high program.

Money from the sale of Isabel Cook would have to be used to enlarge one or both of these schools for a larger program, he explained.

The board last night also agreed to withdraw a request from the administration to plan phasing out of fifth and sixth grades, the only classes still housed at Isabel Cook.

The school district board will next meet April 16 at 8 p.m. in the Red Hill School Library in a joint meeting with the master plan survey committee.

Park Board Asks Hike Of $73,000

San Anselmo Park and Recreation commissioners last night asked the city council to approve a parks and recreation budget for fiscal 1974-75 that is about $73,000 higher than this year's.

Most of the increase is in the $50,000 outlay proposed to buy the multipurpose room at Isabel Cook School, which is being closed, reported Gary S. Howell, parks and recreation director.

The total spending program for parks and recreation is set at $241,458, compared to $167,801 last year, Howell said.

The recreation budget us up from $67,759 to $76,404, but Howell predicted the increase will be offset by $20,000 income from fees paid by persons enrolling in recreation programs.

The rest of the commission's next meeting will be May 1 in the city hall.

'Souse Pacific' Opens Tomorrow

The Pelican Players, the little theater group of the Tiburon Peninsula Club, will present "Souse Pacific" tomorrow, Friday and Saturday with curtain at 8:30 p.m. for each performance, at the clubhouse.

Alan Cundall and Paul Gebo headed a committee of script writers who adapted the Rogers and Hammerstein story line for the local presentation. Cundall also acts as master of ceremonies and Gebo is the director. Helen Solinger and Sue Rouda are the producers.

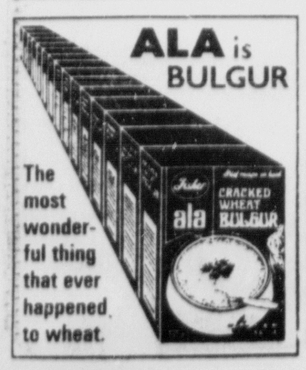
Wide Range Of Courses Offered

Educational and recreational classes ranging from playing cards to gardening will be offered this spring by the Corte Madera Park and Recreation Department, according to Jacqueline A. Branch, recreation director.

Bridge classes will be held Thursdays beginning tomorrow, guitar classes and tumbling classes for youngsters will be held Wednesdays beginning April 17 and gardening classes will be held Fridays beginning May 3.

Further information can be obtained at town hall.



Kentfield Trustees Like Special Student Program

Elementary School students should be allowed to continue choosing their own classes in a special program in the Kentfield School District, district trustees were told last night.

Under the program, students at Bacich School make their own schedule for four afternoons per week and Greenbrae School students do the same one day per week, according to Supt. Eugene C. Peters.

The recommendation for continuation came from a committee of the district citizens advisory council but included several plans for changing the program, Peters said.

Among recommended chantes are:

Involve school principals more in the selection of teachers and volunteers for the program and limit high school age volunteers to "classroom helpers" without full responsibility for classes,

Revise goals of the program so that they apply to the program itself and not the district as a whole;

Remove classes one through three from the program;

Hire a non teaching person to coordinate the program which will save some of the $12,000 now paid to teachers who are coordinating the program. The savings to be used for supplies and expenses.

Trustees directed staff to study the committee's report and set a special meeting April 23 at 8 p.m. in Bacich School to review the extended learning program.

The Kentfield School District board also:

COUNSELORS — Deferred until May 7 a proposal to hire a full time counselor at the district's junior high school and half-time counselors for its four elementary schools.

EVALUATION — Agreed that teachers will be evaulated next year against a set of goals for improvement which will be set at the beginning of the school year.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to April 17 at 8 p.m. in Bacich School to consider a citizens advisory council report on district reorganization.

Entertainment On Sunday To Aid Playground

Four rock groups, a folk artist, magician and a troupe of puppeteers will appear at 4 p.m. Sunday at the Woodacre Improvement Club in a benefit to raise funds for the San Geronimo School playground.

The six-hour benefit will include performances by Alice Stuart and Snake, Betsy Chapman, Dufine, Road Hog, Unanimous Bliss and a magician, Hiram Strait, as well as the Music Box puppet show.

The event is sponsored by the Outdoor Environment Committee of San Geronimo School to raise funds to upgrade the school playground, according to Jack Dorward, committee chariman.

The group hopes to raise $1,500, he said.

ART REVIEW

Artists' Society Show Offers Forecasts And Also Departures

By ADA GARFINKEL

In a well-chosen, compact and handsomely installed display, the Marin Society of Artists' Craft and Sculpture Show offers some interesting ideas — forecasts as well as departures, from the customary.

Leslie Wilde, for example, dwells upon man-beast and male-female dual tendencies within human beings in his hybrid ceramic sculpture "Presentation" which incorporates the salient features of each.

Diana Browne's "Ride of Life," an electrically operated ceramic carousal, draws upon Greek mythology to create her own metaphor for the ferry which carried the souls of the dead over the River Styx. Her death-head guardian-watchman, however, (unlike the mythical Charon) is dressed in movie-Western garb.

And there is a thought-provoking symbolism inherent in the symbiotic relationship between geometric and organic forms in Steven Williams' ceramic sculpture which he describes as "Center of Being."

Bonnie Himberg's "Lagul," with two narrow fringed panels flanking a long central pane which is heavily ornamented with red-orange jute fringe, becomes transformed into a shamanistic totem.

Matilda Franz' "Garment," however — looking more like a Veronica cape — is draped over a gilded baroque drapery pole, suggesting a practical alternative use.

In recent months there has been a growing trend among jewelry artisans to revive an earlier interest in reliquary boxes. Two cylindrical silver miniatures with gold, opal, and wrought iron ornamentation by Lida Dear and those by Michael Lieben are unusually effective.

Also in the "collector's item" category are Glen Himberg's walnut handled, seashell-and-sterling-filagree spoons, and his "Wedding Set" matching rings.

In the best tradition of constructivist work are William Lary's "Negative Time Frame," a standing wooden sculpture, and Janet McNinch's geometrically woven, black-and-white "Three Cubes," in graduated sizes.

Other important works are Margaret Brewster's pendant necklace and her gold, diamond, and peridot ring, Carol Herschleb's set of art-deco goblets, Bernadette Cole's Raku free-form pot, and Sibyl Wichinger's light-reflecting wall-hanging constructed from massed tea-containers, metal spools, and concave brass door knobs.

Cash award winners were Matilda Franz, Diana Browne, Helena Irons, and Chris Wagener. Merit awards were given to Esthermae Riley, Sibyl Weichinger and Bernadette Cole.

This exhibit will continue through April 28 and may be seen daily, except holidays, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Scouts To Start Scout-O-Rama Ticket Sales

Cubs, Scouts and Explorers will begin selling tickets for the annual Marin Council Scout-O-Rama April 5.

Scout-O-Rama, the annual demonstration of scouting skills, achievements and activities, will be held May 11 from 12:30 to 6 p.m. at Forest Meadows on the Dominican College campus in San Rafael.

"With the theme Exposition '74 we expect to have the biggest and best display with many more units involved. It is going to be a real tribute to the boys and their activities," said Scott Hardie, general chairman for this year's event.

Proceeds from the ticket sale benefit each troop, pack or post on a percentage basis. Individual scouts and cubs are also eligible for a variety of prizes, depending on the number of tickets each boy sells.

The boys will be visiting their neighbors with the tickets in the weeks before Scout-O-Rama.

Oils On Display

Two Marin artists — Larry Steelman of Larkspur and Shirley Banks of Tiburon — have oil paintings on display throughout April at the Crocker Bank in the Belvedere Boardwalk shopping area.

Rehearsals Are Launched For Play For Centennial

Rehearsals got under way this week for "Jubilee!", a musical based on the story of San Rafael, from mission days to the present, to be presented during the city's centennial celebration in May.

Written and directed by Paul and Valerie McMullen, the show is described by them as "a not-so-reverent musical revue of the history of San Rafael."

In "Julilee!", the past is represented by Don Timeteo Murphy and the present by a young man named Tom, and together they lead the audience on a journey through the years, stopping along the way to savor some of the major events and intriguing sidelights of the times and San Rafael's reactions to them.

The show will have more than a score of songs set to Broadway music and a cast of 130 singers, dancers and actors.

The show is being produced by music council of the San Rafael Parent-Teacher Association. Music coordinator is Hugo Rinaldi, coordinator of music for the San Rafael city schools and conductor of Orchestra Piccola and the Marin Youth Symphony.

The music arrangements are being done by Phil Bovero whose orchestrations are used by many top recording and performing musicians. In charge of choreography is Eileen Dubs, former professional dancer and longtime local dance instructor.

The 130-member cast ranges in age from 8 to 80, and combined with a technical crew of about 70, makes for a total of more than 200 residents actively involved in the production.

Performances will be May 17, 18, and 19 and May 21, 22, 23 and 24 at San Rafael High School auditorium.

"I am amazed at the interest already evidenced in the show even though ticket sales have not yet been formally announced," McMullen said. "Seats for opening night are already scarce and others are going rapidly."

Reservations can be made through San Rafael City Hall.

FILM — Two San Rafael film students prepare to shoot clips of a vintage copy of the Independent-Journal, for inclusion in a production to be screened on May 18 as part of the city Centennial celebration. More than 60 students are involved in preparation of the film documentary.

Premiere Of Historical Film Set

The premiere screening of a film by San Rafael and Terra Linda high school students on San Rafael history will be May 18 at the Montecito Theater, according to a teacher coordinating the student documentary.

The film undertaking is in connection with the city's centennial celebration.

David Swingle, an English, film and television instructor at the high schools, said students will complete filming for the 50-minute, color and sound production this week. Editing and processing work will take another month, he said.

Swingle, who supervised six students as they filmed old newspaper headlines and photographs in the Independent-Journal library yesterday, said the production will encompass all aspects of film technique.

"The film will try to give a visual overview of San Rafael prehistory and history, from the Miwok Indians to shots of city hall," he said. No recreated scenes will be used.

The film will include scenes from some 5,000 feet of vintage nitrate footage given to the group by residents and the Lyric Photoplay Society, an organization that restores and preserves old movies.

Four prints of the film will be made, two to be on file at the city library, and two to be used as teaching tools by the San Rafael School System, according to Swingle.

The production was financed by a $4,300 grant from Fireman's Fund American Insurance Co.

Oregon Governor Tom McCall To Talk At Behr Fund-Raiser

Oregon Gov. Tom McCall will be the featured speaker at a fund-raising dinner for Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, on May 3 at Peacock Gap Country Club.

The conservation-minded governor has said he is considering running for president in 1976 to give a voice to disgruntled Republicans and Democrats as well as independents.

Tickets, at $35 a plate, are available through the Peter Behr Campaign Committee, 1526 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, and dinner chairman Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley.

FRENCH — Alan D. French of San Francisco, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Fifth Congressional District, has said he has lost the support of organized labor because he was seen "eating a MacDonald's hamburger." The restaurant chain uses nonunion labor. French also blamed "rampant cronyism between wealthy labor leaders and their political pawns for allowing payroll taxes to rise while working peoples' wages are frozen and corporate profits soar."

SASSELLI — Louis D. Sasselli of Corte Madera, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Ninth Assembly District, has urged the Legislature to pass a no-fault insurance plan. Such measures have been stymied "by a small handful of special interest legislators, who have personal gain to make by preventing its passage," he said.

MENDELSOHN — San Francisco Supervisor Robert H. Mendelsohn, candidate for the Democratic nomination for state controller, has called for a sales tax decrease to replace Monday's increase of 1 per cent, arguing if big business paid its fair share of taxes there would be no need for more sales tax revenue. He cited what he termed "sweetheart contracts" between oil companies and the state over royalties for tidelands oil, and said loopholes for insurance companies mean "the owner of a two-bedroom home pays the same property tax rate as the owner of a 40-story office building."

Roth Claims Mentally Ill Mistreated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Democratic gubernatorial hopeful William Matson Roth of Ross yesterday accused Gov. Reagan of playing financial gamesmanship at the expense of the mentally ill.

Roth told a news conference that "Reagan pits the state hospitals against local mental health programs in the budgetary process.

"This isn't budgeting and planning," he said. "It is a kind of financial gamesmanship in which essential service systems are told to compete against each other for a limited number of dollars."

He said a visit to Agnew State Hospital earlier in the day showed many patients were being turned out of the hospitals into the streets without treatment plans, referral or followup and without evidence of concern for patient well being.

Roth said if he were elected governor he would renovate the four remaining state facilities for care of the mentally ill at Agnew, Napa, Camarillo and Fairview.

Astronaut Sees Women In Space Within A Decade

CHICAGO (UPI) — Edward G. Gibson, one of the three members of the Skylab III space mission, says he believes there will be women astronauts within a decade.

"I'm sure we'll have women astronauts by the 1980s," Gibson told newsmen yesterday as he was leaving Chicago after a week's visit. "It would be unnatural for men or women to be alone in space for over a year."

Shuttle flights are scheduled in the 1980s and they may last longer than a year for some astronauts.

His own children, he said, showed no interest in becoming astronauts.

"The girls are interested in girl things," he said, but his 9-year-old son, John "is interested in airplanes and anything else mechanical."

Housing Authority Staff Given Right To Hold Closed Meetings

A member of the board of the Marin County Housing Authority does not have the right to attend all meetings called by the authority staff, directors decided last night.

The board made the policy statement in response to a complaint by Director Rogers Jones. Jones had charged last month that he was barred from a meeting to discuss relocation of public housing tenants during modernization of 102 apartments in Marin City.

The March 18 session was called by authority Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd to organize a nine-member tenants committee to advise the authority on modernization problems.

Jones and several other public housing tenants were denied entrance to the session by Shepherd.

Last night the authority board backed its executive director.

"He (Shepherd) can exclude any director from a meeting he has called that is not a public meeting," said board member Robert E. Eklund.

"We give the day-to-day operation to our executive director' it's out of our hands," said Director Arthur Miller Jr.

Director Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. said he could see "where the presence of a commissioner could make it difficult for the executive director to conduct business." And board member Myrna Bergerson said directors should not "interfere with the smooth running of the operation — clutter up the place."

Jones, of course, disagreed with the decision. "I live in Marin City and I realize what conditions are, so I feel I have a right to come to such meetings," he told the board, adding: "I don't think the operation is running all that smoothly."

Jones had protested discussing the matter in the first place last night because it wasn't on the agenda.

But Eklund, acting for chairman Harold A. Strouss, who arrived late, brushed aside his objections. "This is the time we're going to talk about it and only for 10 minutes," he told Jones.

Marin County Housing Authority Board Also:

HILARITA — Heard E. G. Weed, president of the Tiburon Ecumenical Association which is developing the new 102-unit Hilarita Housing project promise that tenants of the old Hilarita can live in the new project even if they can't afford the rents. Weed said his group could rent to some poor families at below cost and make up the difference by renting some of the units at above market value.

REPORT — Voted to spend $2,800 for an annual report for the authority and to develop a format for a tenant newsletter.

SALE — Agreed to sell 2.7 acres of the Hilarita site to the city of Tiburon for $36,000. The city will use the land for open space.

Foolproof Diet

LONDON (AP) — Compulsive eater Charles Smith, 32, was told he would have to reduce his 322 pounds and has chosen a foolproof method. Dental surgeons clamped his teeth shut with steel and glue, permitting him to ingest only liquids. He shed 70 pounds in the first four weeks.

HAPPY — Leonie Hool, who was born in Indonesia and lived later in Holland, says "now I have my own country." She received her American citizenship last month. The San Rafael restaurant owner has known prejudice and trouble in her life, but she says she has felt welcome in this country from the start.

Gnoss Field Plan Is Placed On Ice

The proposed master plan for Gnoss Field was placed on ice yesterday by Marin County supervisors, who said they want more study of the economic consequences of expanding the airport.

The board's decision came on a unanimous vote to accept an environmental impact report but to delay further hearings until the economic study is made.

The study, urged by the planning commission last week when it rejected the environmental report, will deal with the effect airport expansion would have on surrounding lands.

The planning commission on a 3-to-3 vote said the economic study should be part of the environmental report.

The study also was urged by several property owners, the Novato Chamber of Commerce and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney.

Maloney said the study should be made prior to adoption of the 20-year master plan to avoid possible inverse condemnation of neighboring properties.

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste said he thought such a study would show that surrounding lands will benefit from airport expansion and not suffer depressed values.

He added that commercial and light industrial uses around the airport would generate more tax revenue, at less cost in providing public services, than would residential development.

(Under state law, residential development is tightly controlled in areas near airports. The county's new airport land use commission is establishing what those areas are, using noise level contours. Greater use of the airport in the future would expand those noise contours outward.)

Ray W. Foreaker Jr., director of public works, said it will take about a month to outline what the study should cover and at least two months more for a consultant to do it.

The proposed master plan calls for construction of a second runway at the airport, among other things. Use of the air field is projected to more than triple over the next 20 years.

Board Gives $5,000 To Legal Aid Society

The Legal Aid Society of Marin was granted an additional $5,000 yesterday by county supervisors following a less than successful drive for funding from private attorneys.

The society was granted $12,000 by the county last June and urged to raise the other $6,000 it requested from local attorneys.

Spokesmen said yesterday their fund drive raised only $1,000 from more than 200 Marin attorneys.

"I'm pretty disappointed with the private bar," Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini, an attorney, told the board. "Any donation would have been write-off to them."

On his motion, the board granted the $5,000 difference in the $1,000 raised and $6,000 requested.

Marin County Board of Supervisors also:

LEGISLATION — Voted 4 to 1. Supervisor Michael Wornum dissenting, to oppose AB 2040 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, to establish a Bay Area regional planning agency.

NICASIO — Received a report from the planning department in which it acknowledged it erred in not mailing notices to property owners with land adjacent to parcels which were rezoned last month in the Nicasio area. The department said a clerical error caused the mistake and said its system of mailing notices will be revamped.

CAPITAL PROGRAM — Postponed to April 16 discussion of the county's capital improvement program for the next six years. The delay was requested by the planning commission which has not reviewed the document yet.

FAMILY TREE — Allocated $15,000 to the Independent Learning Institute to start a new division, called the Family Tree, to develop a program for autistic and other severely handicapped children.

HEARING — Will hold a hearing next Tuesday on rezoning the Mount Burdell area north of Novato to allow a fewer number of homesites in the area listed in the countywide general plan as open space.

CONTRACT — Approved a $187,027 contract with Ghilotti Brothers Construction Co. of San Rafael for road widening and bridge replacement on the Tomales-Petaluma Road near Tomales.

Bus Board Protests Fund Snatch

The Marin County Transit District board moved swiftly and unanimously yesterday to protest a move to divert $525,000 of its gas tax revenues to help operate the San Francisco Municipal Railway. (Another transit board story, page 1)

According to Ray W. Foreaker Jr., general manager of the transit district, San Francisco officials are claiming the funds because Marin commuters use the railway system.

He said their estimate that 80 per cent of the commuters use the system "is extremely high" and urged the board to protest to the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC).

The MTC is responsible for allocating the county's share of gas tax revenues designated by the state for transit purposes. The county next year will receive slightly more than $1 million in such revenue, most of it to go to the Golden Gate Bridge District, which provides bus and ferry transit in Marin.

In other action yesterday, the transit board protested a move by the bridge district to bill the county for "special bus service" provided the Tamalpais High School District.

Robert L. Harrison, assistant general manager, said the amount could total $49,000, revised downward from last week's estimate of $63,000.

The service, which provides special bus routes for high school students, has never been approved by the county and was subsidized in the past by the bridge district.

Turnout Is Good For Open Houses

Elementary schools polled this morning reported that the turnout of parents was "very good" to "excellent" with little if any competition from the television program. The general opinion of school officials was that parents were "genuinely interested" in their children's schools.

Road To Successful San Rafael Life Marked By War, Prejudices

By MARY LEYDECKER

San Rafael restaurant owner Leonie Hool has known more than her share of prejudice and discrimination.

When she was in high school in Indonesia she was called "lip lop" because she was half Chinese. Later, in Holland, she and her children were taunted as "coffee beans" by fair-skinned Dutch neighbors.

"But now I have my own country," Mrs. Hool said proudly.

Although she and her family arrived in San Rafael some 14 years ago virtually penniless, she thought from the start that "here you have a chance to be somebody."

Mrs. Hool's story is the old one of the immigrant who makes good — but the path has often been a thorny one. Now, she is the proud possessor of a brand-new set of citizenship papers, she runs a thriving business and she has successfully reared five children.

The sparkly eyed little woman, who soon will celebrate her 50th birthday, told the story of her life in the English she has learned without benefit of any formal instruction.

As she spoke, she chopped away at mushrooms and other delicacies being prepared for the evening meal at her restaurant, the Rice Table.

Mrs. Hool came from the small town of Depok in Indonesia, the daughter of a Chinese father and an Indonesian mother. Her town was a small and unusual enclave of Christians in a Moslem country — descendents of slaves brought there by a Dutchman.

Before the Japanese conquered Indonesia in 1942, Mrs. Hool's family was prosperous — her father owned a large restaurant. From the time she was a little girl, she, too, loved to cook, and her father trained her by having her sample dishes and then prepare copies until she succeeded in pleasing him.

Mrs. Hool left high school before graduation and worked in a restaurant her father had a part interst in, but "he never told me he was an owner."

She married young — at 16 — to a Dutch soldier whom her father brought home from the church where he was a deacon. A child was born, and Mrs. Hool's husband went off to another part of the world with the Dutch army.

During what she calls the "Japanese time" in Indonesia and later during upheavals which followed the end of World War II, Mrs. Hool ran a couple of very small restaurants "to support myself and my son."

The early stage of Indonesian independence brought great violence to the country, and Mrs. Hool and her family at one point were herded as Christians into a barricade where other Indonesians intended to kill them. They were rescued, however, through a passing team of United Nations representatives.

The violence, death and injuries Mrs. Hool saw made her decide to be a nurse, and she trained for a couple of years in a larger town in Indonesia. In 1948, however, when the Indonesian government ordered all those of Dutch citizenship out of the country, she took her young son and worked her way to Holland as a nurse on a hospital ship.

"I did it for my son," she explained, because he was half white and not pure Indonesian.

In Holland, where she was later reunited with her Dutch husband and bore four more children, Mrs. Hool found the atmosphere "so cold" and "so stiff."

When the opportunity came for her and her family to emigrate to the United States, she was delighted.

They arrived in New York City, she said, and were given a choice of several places to settle. But in the little English she knew at the time, she said, "no big cities."

So in December 1959, Mrs. Hool, her husband and their five children arrived in San Rafael under the sponsorship of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Only the father and the oldest son spoke much English, and the family had few possessions and no means.

In gratitude to the St. Paul's parishioners, Mrs. Hool cooked an Indonesian dinner for 200 of them. "I couldn't speak English," she remembered, "and I had never seen an electric stove before."

Nonetheless, the dinner was a success and is still remembered by many members of St. Paul's.

Soon the family had moved into its own home, where Mrs. Hool managed on a $250-a-month salary her husband first earned. Within about six months, though, she went to work as a nurse's aide in a convalescent hospital.

After a time she and her Dutch husband divorced, and six years ago she married her present husband, San Rafael policeman Sherman (Bill) Hool, who was working part time in the convalescent hospital.

At lunchtime Hool, then a student, would explain English to his new friend, and "I was very quick at picking up words," she said.

Because he didn't like her to work, Mrs. Hool quit her job, but about a year and a half later she opened her restaurant.

Although there were "lots of problems in the beginning introducing this type of food" at the first Indonesian restaurant in Marin, Mrs. Hool now has many faithful customers.

Her recipes are "strictly" from her family, she said, and sometimes when her Marin friends go to Indonesia, they return to say they were disappointed that restaurant food there was different.

After 25 years, Mrs. Hool last year finally got a chance to visit her homeland. She had dreamed for years of returning to Indonesia and of showing her husband her childhood home, but "after three days I began to cry. Nothing was the same — and I wanted my American breakfast," she said with a smile.

No Performance

There is no performance tonight of the Marin Symphony. A roundup of events scheduled for the Marin Veterans Memorial Building in yesterday's Independent-Journal erroneously reported there would be such a performance, based on a calendar furnished by the building administration.

A Plan For More Coyote Kills Beaten

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to expand killing of coyotes has been defeated in an Assembly committee in the wake of an intensive campaign against the measure by the Sierra Club.

The bill, SB 685, by Sen. Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield, got only eight of the 11 votes it needed in the ways and means committee to get out to the Assembly floor.

Voting for the bill was Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. "When you have to make a choice between sheep and coyotes," he told the Independent-Journal, "I'm for the sheep."

Among the majority voting against the measure was Assemblyman John L. Burton of San Francisco, candidate for the Democratic nomination in the Fifth Congressional District.

The Sierra Club objected the bill would have stepped up an indiscriminate program killing not only coyotes who never have tasted lamb, but eagles and other endangered species. Saturating the state with poisons and saw-toothed traps would do more killing than curing, the club said.

The bill would have assessed woolgrowers a cent a pound on wool and mohair to augment public funds now spent on predator control.

Montessori Day School Is Denied

The San Anselmo Planning Commission has denied a use permit sought for a Montessori day school at 38 Austin Avenue.

The proposal by James and Angela Congsman, previously withdrawn from city council consideration, was resubmitted to planners Monday night with a busing plan to eliminate traffic congestion.

Neighbors have widely opposed encroachment of the facility in the residential area, citing traffic hazards.

Commissioners said the proposal "wasn't much changed" from previous plans for a school in the area, according to planning secretary Cathy Carpenter.

In other business, the commission rezoned 240 and 250 Red Hill Avenue and denied permits for single-family homes between 175 Ridge Road and 17 Wood Court and at 22 Monterey Terrace.

The commission approved a permit to serve beer and wine at a delicatessen at 407-411 San Anselmo Avenue and approved a dancing studio at 21 Mariposa Avenue.

The agency next meets at 8 p.m. April 15.

Larkspur Council To Eye Open Space

Participation in a county service to buy open space lands on the North Ridge will be considered by the Larkspur City Council when it meets tonight at 8 p.m. in city hall.

The North Ridge Action Committee, made up of representatives from Larkspur, Corte Madera and Mill Valley, has suggested the three communities cooperate in forming the county service area, and the latter two have endorsed the idea.

Today is Wednesday, April 3, the 93rd day of 1974 with 272 to follow.

The moon is moving from its first quarter to full. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Mars.

Astronaut Virgil Grissom was born on April 3, 1926.

On this day in history:

In 1806, the Pony Express postal service began with riders leaving St. Joseph, Miss., and Sacramento, Calif., at the same time.

In 1865, the Union Army occupied Richmond, Va., one-time capital of the Confederacy.

In 1962, the federal government ordered New Orleans to integrate the first six grades of public schools.

In 1971, President Nixon said he would review the case of Lt. William Calley, given a life sentence for his role in the assassination of civilians in Vietnam.

A thought for the day: British lecturer John Collins said: "Mistrust a subordinate who never finds fault with his superior."

Don't Dream Up Clever Stunts When Putting On The Pressure

When you're looking for a way to bamboozle opponents, don't spend all of your time dreaming up clever stunts. There's nothing subtle about putting your opponents through the meat grinder, but it's very effective.

IN DUMMY

When the hand was played, declarer took the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds and returned the jack of spades. The idea was to steal the ninth trick at once. If East had the ace of spades, he might play low; if West had the ace of spades, he might continue diamonds.

As it happened, West had the ace of spades and the use of both eyes. He could see dummy's long clubs and felt sure that South had the king (since otherwise South would tackle the clubs first).

West thought a bit more and switched to the deuce of hearts. This fine play enabled the defenders to take their four heart tricks, defeating the contract.

NOT PRACTICAL

South should win the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds and run the six clubs immediately. South can conveniently discard a spade and two hearts.

The opponents must save all of their hearts together with just enough in diamonds to prevent South's ten from winning a trick. Moreover, they msut both throw away most of their spades even though South has bid the suit.

How can they pick the right defense? Any good player should see through South's actual spade play, but only a pair of bridge geniuses would defend successfully if declarer ran the clubs.

Always welcome the chance to run a long suit when your own discards are no problem. Turn the problem over to your opponents and smile sweetly as they fall over their own feet.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes?

You hold:
♠- A 3 2
♥- K 7 6 2
♦- J 8 7 6 5
♣- 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

You expect to show the diamond support later.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Evidence Shows Dirty Air May Be More Nuisance Than Hazard

Air pollution is a problem in almost every city, regardless of size. More than 3,000 different chemical particles have been identifed in the air, but it is doubtful whether the long-term effects of these substances are actually known.

There is increasing evidence that they are more of a nuisance than health hazard. We need air to sustain life and everyone wants it clean. However, this is difficult to do if we refuse to give up modern conveniences.

Most women object to the extra work and money spent to keep the home clean. Airborne chemicals and dirt producers probably cost millions annually in terms of damage to property, plants, and animals.

COMMUNITIES HAVE different problems, depending on their particular industries, energy requirements, vehicle traffic, and weather conditions. In some areas, the most annoying side effect of air pollution is the irritaion of eyes, nose, and bronchi.

The most worrisome is that the irritants aggravate chronic lung diseases or may prove to be carcinogenic. Cigarette smoking is concentrated air pollution, yet so few have done anything about it.

Where does aerial garbage come from? Some contaminants originate in blast furnaces and other industrial processes. Thousands of chimneys on homes, commercial buildings, and factories belch out soot.

But in many areas the main offenders are the millions and millions of motor vehicles spewing out thousands of tons of toxic gases. To this we can add the exhaust from trucks, trains, jets, planes, boats, earth-moving equipment, and buses. Lawn mowers and burning leaves are trivial sources. All of us contribute a smidgen here and there, and there are just too many of "us."

AT PRESENT, those concerned with motor vehicles are, perhaps, the least practical. Actually, there are too many cars. One solution might be more car pools and, preferably, smaller cars.

Bicycles are pollution free. Better mass transportation systems also help. In my opinion, something also should be done about the hundreds of thousands of large trucks on our streets and highways.

We have plenty of railroad lines; so why not expand "piggyback" transportation in order to get most of these trucks off our highways? Trains that carry autos also should be encouraged.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

DIZZY SPELLS

REPLY

The usual symptoms of cirrhosis are abdominal distress, lack of appetite, fatigue, and weakness. Dizziness may occur from a complication, but is not considered a symptom of the disease.

TUNNEL VISION

M.S. writes: What is tunnel vision?

REPLY

Most of us can see over a wide area when looking straight ahead. The person with tunnel vision sees only what is directly in front, as if looking through an open tube or pipe. His vision is limited, like that of a horse wearing blinders.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Sexual Past Evidence Measure Is Advanced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Major legislation aimed at eliminating the "brutal" courtroom situation in which a rape victim must reveal her past sexual experiences advanced to the Assembly today.

The controversial measure by Sen. Alan Robbins, D-North Hollywood, cleared the Senate easily on a lopsided 31-3 vote yesterday as a gallery packed with women broke into brief applause and cheers.

The measure (SB1678), supported by the National Organization for Women, would make specific cases of the victim's previous sexual contacts with persons other than the accused attacked inadmissible as evidence in rape trials.

An accused rapist is not required to disclose his sexual past, but under current law the victim must do so under cross examination by a defense attorney.

Robbins estimated as many as 80,000 rapes go unreported in California each year because women fear being required to reveal intimate contacts with other persons in court.

"The victim is considered fair game," he said. "She is asked how many boy friends she has had and how many she had intercourse with. It's totally irrelevant."

MEASLES SHOTS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to require that all public school children be immunized against rubella as a condition of admission was introduced by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills.

The measure (SB1967) would supplement the existing program requiring immunization for polio, regular measles, diptheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

BLOOD DONORS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A 17-year-old could donate blood without parental consent under a bill approved yesterday by the Senate on a 30-3 vote.

Existing law prohibits donors under age 18.

Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, said the proposal would also allow a minor who was 15 or 16 to donate blood with his parents' consent.

The measure (SB1540) declares a lack of sufficient blood donors in California requiring that the scope of potential donors be expanded "at the earliest possible date."

It now goes to the Assembly.

Ervin's New Views About On Removal

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (UPI) — Sen. Sam Ervin, DN.C., Senate Watergate Committee chairman, said last night he believes President Nixon could be impeached for "crimes such as obstruction of justice" and "a fraudulent effort to avoid paying income taxes."

Ervin's definition of crimes that fall under the constitutional description of "treason, bribery, or other high crimes" brought applause from the predominantly student audience on the campus of Western Kentucky University.

Ervin described the Watergate scandal as a "conspiracy to rob the American people of their birthright to vote in a free election for the President of the United States."

He said the scandal was "unique in American history" because past cases of election fraud were committed by individuals rather than an organized national campaign committee.

"This is the first time in the history of this nation that a national committee charged with the conduct of a campaign of a candidate for President resorted to tactics such as espionage and violations of the law," he said.

Lunch Facilities Inventory Sought

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Senate Majority Leader George R. Moscone called yesterday for an inventory of all existing school lunch facilities in the state.

Moscone, D-San Francisco, introduced a resolution that would require the State Department of Education to determine which schools have facilities capable of producing food and which districts have no facilities at all.

Haldeman's Description Of Ex-Boss

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — H.R. Haldeman says President Nixon's greatest weakness is that he is too soft hearted, unable to discipline or fire people, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

Haldeman says all the facts of Watergate are not yet known, the newspaper reported.

Haldeman, in his first semipublic appearance since resigning his post as White House chief of staff in the Watergate scandal, spoke to a meeting of businessmen in the Mexican resort of Acalpulco yesterday.

"Reporters were barred from the session but details of his talk became available later," the Times said in a report from a staff writer covering the meeting.

Haldeman spoke for more than two hours to the Young Presidents Organization. He needed court permission to leave the United States, because he is under indictment for perjury, obstruction of justice and conspiracy.

Asked what was Nixon's greatest weakeness, the Times said he replied, "This is one you probably won't find credible, but I think his greatest weakness is his soft heartedness at the personal level.

"He's a very tough guy in the abstract. But it is very hard for him to deal with personal problems. He has a very soft heart at the person-to-person human relationship level . . ."

Plan To Speed Cases In Court

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Suspects charged with crimes not punishable by death or life imprisonment could go directly to trial—without indictment by a grand jury—under a procedure proposed yesterday by Gov. Malcolm Wilson.

Wilson said the bill implements a recent state constitutional amendment.

He said the proposal would reduce case backlogs and thereby reduce the waiting period for those defendants who chose not to waive the indictment.

Different Type Of Rating Asked For Children's TV

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The head of ABC-TV says the way children's weekend morning TV shows now are rated should be replaced with an industrywide system to measure not only audience size and makeup, but also the effect of such programs and their commercials on young viewers.

James E. Duffy made the proposal in an interview. He took a much stronger stand than in a recent speech in which he urged the industry only to "take a long, hard look at the possibility of eliminating children's audience ratings on the weekend, on a national basis."

He was asked in the interview if he personally would like to see that type of rating abolished.

"Sure," he replied. "I would. But you can't do it alone. That's the whole point. This is such a competitive business and the stakes are so high that one network . . . can't do it alone."

The ratings employ two basic methods, according to a spokesman for the A. C. Nielsen ratings service. One is a device attached to TV sets in 1,200 homes. It records the channel to which the set is tuned.

The other method is a diary, kept by 2,400 households. The residents, for a fee, note in them who watched what and when. One-third of these diaries are collected weekly for evaluation, the spokesman said.

Despite advances in the quality of children's programming, Duffy said, this ratings system isn't enough now. What's needed, he said, is a "broader-based study, a much larger sample, that would not only indicate popularity, but also would give viewer attitudes toward program and commercial content."

He said the samplings should be "in-depth," made every four months to allow for a more thorough audience assessment, and include what he called "psychographics," or the kinds of reactions programs and commercials cause in viewers.

He said he'd like to hear if the Nielsen ratings service is interested in the idea "along the criteria we've laid out here."

But for the time being, Duffy said, there could be a test study of the proposal, possibly lasting two years and financed either by the three networks and independent stations, or by the National Association of Broadcasters, which claims 531 television stations as members.

He said he hasn't proposed it yet to officials at CBS, NBC or the NAB because he's been travelling on business and also is "waiting to see what kind of action the other two networks will take.

"And if there isn't some in a short period of time, then I'm going to my management and see what kind of action we can go with from there."

Both NBC and CBS were noncommittal when asked by a newsman if they supported Duffy's proposal to eliminate TV ratings for children's weekend programs and replace them with the system outlined by the ABC executive.

Youth Transferred To Juvenile Hall

A young man whose seven weeks of relative isolation in a Marin County Jail cell culminated in a suicide attempt was transferred yesterday to Juvenile Hall.

Ordinarily, youths under 18 are held at Juvenile Hall. But Trombley was in county jail because juvenile authorities had decided they no longer could help him and turned him over to adult authorities.

Additionally, Trombley, a heroin addict, began suffering withdrawal symptoms after his arrest, and Juvenile Hall officials decided it was improper to keep him there.

During his jail stay, said Superior Court Judge Charles Read Best, special efforts were made to give Trombley as much human contact as possible.

He was visited four times a day by jailors bringing meals, at least once a day by a tutor and a nurse and he was allowed unlimited visiting privileges by his family.

At one time, Best was willing to let Trombley mingle with other prisoners, but the sheriff's department advised against it on grounds the county could be sued if the youth were attacked in jail.

After Trombley's suicide attempt Monday, he was treated at Marin General Hospital and returned to his cell. Yesterday, Juvenile Hall officials gave the go-ahead to return Trombley to the hall.

Trombley's burglary case was transferred to adult court by Blaine, who said he earlier warned the youth that his next offense would not be handled in juvenile court.

Bayh Goes To Court Over Oil Conferences

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., today filed suit against the Federal Trade Commission, demanding prehearing conferences between the eight largest oil companies and the FTC be made public.

Bayh's suit, filed in U.S. District Court, said the oil companies "have used Federal Trade Commission rules to cloak important information regarding alleged anti-competitive practices from public scrutiny."

The suit, citing the Freedom of Information Act, said the oil companies —Exxo, Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Standard of California, Standard of Indiana, Shell and Arco —invoked an FTC rule permitting participants in pre-hearing conferences to insist they be kept secret. Bayh said the oil companies invoked the rule although the FTC counsel in the case asked them not to.

Bayh said his suit followed an earlier request by letter the FTC make available to Bayh a transcript of a Dec. 18, 1973, pre-hearing conference between the companies and the FTC. Bayh said the request received no proper answer.

He said another conference is set for April 23 in connection with a complaint the FTC filed last summer charging the big eight oil firms with engaging in anti-competitive practices.

Correct Cost Of Proposed Bond Issue

Repayment cost of a proposed bond issue for buying North Ridge open space will be only $11.16 a year total cost to the average Corte Madera homeowner, Town Council member Jana Haehl pointed out yesterday.

The Independent-Journal's story on Monday night's council endorsement of a proposed formation of a county service area mistakenly reported that the per-home annual tax bill would be $11.16 per $100 assessed valuation; the correct figure should have been 10.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Ross Boxer Trains, Fights Hard For Gloves' Victory

Sherry Is Aiming For Nationals

By RON LENT

The 22 year old is not impressive physically. He appears slim at 5-foot-9 ¾ and 142½ pounds. But he has a granite-like jaw and a stout heart immersed in a rock-hard body. Sherry has an alert mind and the intelligence to plan a future in radio or television broadcasting after his amateur boxing career ends.

1973 San Francisco Police Athletic League Boxer of the Year has no illusions about boxing: the business of bashing beaks. "I'm not looking for a pro career. I just want to succeed in the Golden Gloves. I want to go as far as I can with that."

WORKING HARD

And he is working diligently to accomplish it. Sherry, making his fourth consecutive appearance tonight in the tourney, is determined to win the local title and advance to the nationals in Knoxville, Tenn. June 12-15. In 1971 and 1972, Sherry won his first-round bouts but was ousted in the quarter-finals.

Last year, he was stopped in the first round of the 147-pound finals by Tommy Dyes, who has since turned pro.

GETS ADVICE

"I feel I can win this year providing I do what I'm told." Police Athletic League boxing commissioner Earl Gonsolin has advised him to "box and counter punch."

The auburn-haired, blue-eyed Marinite is bent on doing just that. "I won't slug with anybody. I've got to stick and move and slip punches."

In learning these boxing skills, he has received valuable instructions from Gonsolin and experience with Ray Lunny III. Lunny, a lightweight contender from Redwood City, used Sherry as one of his sparring partners in preparing for his recent fight with Miguel Mayan. "I picked up quite a bit from that," Sherry said.

When he's not slipping punches in tourneys or in sparring at the National Guard Armory gym in San Francisco, Sherry can be found studying or exercising.

STUDENT LOAD

He possessed a creditable 2.9 gradepoint average at San Francisco State. Sherry carries 15 units this semester, a full load. Additionally, he runs three miles, five days a week before school in the morning. After classes, the left-handed boxer rushes to the gym for intensive workouts lasting about two hours. Evenings, he studies at home in Ross or, during his two-week Gloves' preparations, in the S.F. apartment.

Although this program appears backbreaking, the College of Marin graduate thrives on it. Sherry has an 11-5 boxing record augmented by tourney triumphs at: Oakland the last three years at 139 pounds; Modesto Feb. 8, senior division, 139 pounds; and Marin Athletic Club, October, 1973 at 143 pounds.

SHERRY'S START

Certainly this is an impressive record for Sherry who comes from boxing stock. "My oldest brother (Vince, age 26) fought in the Gloves, and Jim Adams was his coach. He (Adams) wanted me to try it . . . When I started about four years ago, I figured I'd just try it for a couple of months.

"I found out I enjoyed it. But I also discovered that you have to work hard at it to get anywhere. That's why I train so hard. Conditioning and quickness are my main fighting assets.

TOP SHAPE

"I've got to be in superb condition to avoid being tagged by one of those sluggers. I'm also learning to pace myself — to relax in the ring. I don't want to burn myself out."

He won't, but it is likely that Sherry's boxing skills will burn out most of his rivals.

Long Grind Winding Down

PHOENIX — With the Cactus League behind them, the Giants open the real season in two days with the very distinct possibility of having the availability of only seven of the nine players originally planned to take the field.

One of the nine, pitcher Ron Bryant, is definitely out of action as he continues to wait for the mending of a gash in his side because of an after-hours fall on the edge of a swimming pool. The other is first baseman Ed Goodson who is nursing a pulled hamstring muscle in his right leg.

Tom Bradley will be doing the pitching on opening day in place of Bryant. Switch-hitting Steve Ontiveros will play first base if Goodson is unable to take the field.

GOODSON TOOK batting practice prior to the second weekend game with the A's and it was the first time he had swung a bat in almost a week. On his first whacks, he smashed a ball off the Phoenix Municipal Stadium scoreboard in deep right centerfield and then lofted one over the fence in right. He can swing the bat without pain but running is another matter.

"No, it doesn't hurt when I swing," he said after strolling out of the batting cage, "but I can't run at all. It's going to be a day to day thing. There's no way of knowing whether I'll be ready for opening day."

Although Ontiveros has been having a great spring, batting near the .400 mark, manager Charlie Fox wants Goodson's power in the lineup. Charlie stood and watched Goodson belting those long drives from behind the cage and I thought I detected a sigh.

CATCHING, the one thing that was very weak just a few days ago, is now in much better shape and Fox admits it is no longer a major flaw. Since Mike Sadek has been optioned to the Phoenix farm club, the Giants have three catchers on the roster — Dave Rader, John Boccabella and Ken Rudolph.

And, according to Fox, all three will be getting their chances to play. He said he planned not to work Rader as much as he did last season when Dave appeared in 148 games.

About Boccabella, a Terra Lindan who played his school day ball at Marin Catholic, Fox said, "last year was the first time he had a chnce to play regularly and he played well against us." That was when Boc was the regular catcher for the Montreal Expos, before his March 27 trade to the Giants. "Boc has more power than the other two," Fox said about his catching situation. "If a pitcher makes a mistake against him he can put one out."

Unless he changes his mind before opening the season, as managers sometimes do, Fox has his pitching lineup set for the first five games of the season. After Bradley in the opener, Fox plans to follow with Mike Caldwell and Jim Barr against the Astros and then Jim Willoughby and John D'Acquisto against the Reds. He wants to save D'Acquisto for the first night game because he has more velocity on his fast ball than the other Giant hurlers and it's just that much more difficult for the batters to pick up under the lights.

BRADLEY IS anxiously waiting for the first game. He is determined to be a 20-game winner this time around. He's had a very good spring, winning three games without a defeat.

"I usually do fairly well in the spring and I usually start out well. This time I'm going to stay that way." He said he planned to throw more inside pitches to keep the batters honest. He doesn't want the opposing batters to be digging in on him, waiting for that pitch on the outside corner.

He admits his problem last year, as well as it was when he was on the Chicago White Sox staff, was the ability to finish games he started. He completed just six of 34 games he started last year when he had a 13-12 record.

Drake Ends Redwood's Net Streak

Redwood High School's tennis team, undefeated against Marin opposition for nearly six years, had its winning streak snapped at 80 matches when Drake recorded a 4-3 upset in San Anselmo.

In other Marin County Athletic League matches yesterday, Tamalpais shut out host Novato, 7-0, Terra Linda dumped host San Marin 7-0, and San Rafael handled Marin Catholic, 5-2, at the College of Marin.

Drake, in a three-way tie for first place in the league with Tam and Terra Linda at 2-0, extended a winning streak of its own in breaking Redwood's. The Pirates are 6-0 over-all this year.

NBA ROUNDUP

Knicks Are In Trouble Vs. Bullets: Trail, 2-1

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Capital Bullets provided the stunner in last night's playoff action by beating the Knicks, 87-79, in New York to take a 2-1 lead in games with the scene shifting to their own home court in Landover, Md., for the fourth game on Friday.

It's the first time the Bullets have led the Knicks in a playoff round since 1971-72 when they also had a 2-1 lead after the three games. The Knicks won the next three games then, but on that occasion the Bullets' first two wins were on their home court.

In other playoff games last night, the Los Angeles Lakers, who dropped two games to the Milwaukee Bucks in Milwaukee, returned home and squeaked out a 98-96 win to keep their hopes alive and the Buffalo Braves beat the Boston Celtics, 115-105, in Buffalo, N. Y., to even that series at 1-1.

The strange thing about the Bullets' victory was that the Knicks, after falling 16 points behind, pulled up to a one-point deficit in the fourth period with subs playing. Coach Red Holzman pulled the subs out — and the Bullets pulled away from the first team.

"I thought they (the subs) had gone about as far as they could go," Holzman explained later.

Kevin Porter led the Bullets with 22 points and Walt Frazier had 20 for the Knicks, whose 79 points was the lowest they've ever scored against the Bullets in a playoff.

At Los Angeles, Laker Elmore Smith, outrebounded and outscored by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar in the first two games, turned the tables in scoring, 30-29, and rebounding, 17-15.

But actually it was Connie Hawkins, scoreless in the first three periods and riding the bench with five personals, who sparked the closing surge with seven points in the last 10 minutes. Jerry West reeturned to action for the Lakers for the first time in two months, played 14 ½ minutes, scored four points.

League scoring champion Bob McAdoo scored 17 of his 23 points in the second half at Buffalo to lead the Braves to their win over Boston, leading to the third game tonight in Boston. A fadeaway shot by McAdoo with 3:09 left in the third period broke a 73-73 tie and put Buffalo ahead to stay. Jo Jo White led the Celtics with 27 points.

Sonoma Tennis, Baseball Called

All high school baseball games and tennis matches in southern Sonoma county were postponed yesterday due to rain and poor field conditions.

The only two events rescheduled were the Montgomery (Santa Rosa) at Petaluma baseball and tennis clashes, a reset for tomorrow at 3:30 p.m.

The University of California, Davis at Sonoma State College baseball games was also postponed, but no makeup date was established yet.

Marin Tar Netters Whip Contra Costa

College of Marin's tennis team raised its Camino Norte Conference record to 3-1 yesterday by whipping Contra Costa of San Pablo, 7-2, in Kentfield. Marin's Mark Rodnick beat Mike Nelson, 6-3, 7-5, in the first singles match. The Tars are 12-2 over-all.

Marin 'Cats Win Belated Opener, 3-2

The long-awaited opening of the Marin County Athletic League baseball season occurred yesterday, if on a rather modest note.

Marin Catholic High School edged Tamalpais, 3-2, in the only league game. Although the season had been scheduled to begin last Tuesday and Friday, all games were postponed because of rain. Tam was scheduled to host yesterday's contest. The game was moved to the Wildcats' field, which was in better playing condition — due to the work of groundskeeper Al Reed, according to Marin Catholic coach Dave Gonsalves.

Marin won the game in the sixth inning by scoring two runs on an error, and another on a double steal. Jamie Connolly and Len Kristensen reached base on a double and walk respectively, and scored when Tam's second baseman bobbled a Bob Yetter grounder. After loading the bases on a single, Mike Nivens scored the winning run when Yetter was caught between first and second bases on an attempted steal.

A Wildcat error in the fifth enabled Tam's Curt Campbell to score from first base on a John Hanley bunt. Campbell had singled Hanley then scored in the same inning on a John Wynn hit.

Dodgers Rally To Beat Giants

PHOENIX,Ariz. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Dodgers scored three runs in the seventh inning to defeat the San Francisco Giants 10-8 yesterday in a game halted after eight innings because the Giants had to return to San Francisco.

All three runs in the inning were unearned and wiped out the Giants' 8-7 lead. Tito Fuentes fumbled Willie Crawford's grounder to set up the scoring. Ron Cey followed with a single to center and took second on an error by Garry Maddox. Von Joshua's grounder to short scored Crawford and singles by Bill Russell and Lee Lacy scored the other two runs.

The game was marked by heavy hitting on both sides. Each team came up with 12 hits. Bill Buckner and Joshua homered for the Dodgers and Joshua, Crawford and Jim Wynn hit triples. Starting Dodger pitcher Tommy John produced a double.

The Giants' attack was led by Fuentes, Gary Thomasson and Gary Matthews banging triples, while Matthews and Dave Kingman added doubles.

The Dodgers held a 7-2 lead after four innings when the Giants, helped by two Dodger errors, scored five runs in the fifth and then went ahead in the sixth.

BOATING

How To Improve Engine Efficiency

Although it appears now that boat owners will get enough fuel for a good summer of boating fun, the lessons of the past fuel-short winter should never be forgotten.

Conserving fuel, and making engines run efficiently, should be a way of life for all boaters until the crisis is over.

Improving engine efficiency is probably easiest for boat owners while they are getting their rigs ready for summer. Now is the time to do what is necessary to put outboards and inboard engines in top condition.

I find that owners of large inboard boats, generally speaking, have always been cost conscious because of their large investments. It's the outboarder who is least aware of efficiency and fuel conservation.

So let me urge the outboard owner to take his engine to a dealer, and have it thoroughly serviced and put in top form. For the do-it-yourself boater here are three vital components of the machine that must be given a spring tune up.

First, drain and flush the gear case of the lower unit. Refill it with new lubricant, specified by the manufacturer.

Second, drain and flush the fuel tank, gas line and carburetor with alcohol, lacquer thinners, acetone, or the solvent recommended by the manufacturer. This is to remove any gum that may have formed during the winter lay-up. Gum is a destroyer of efficiency.

Third, remove the sparkplug, or plugs, if the engine has more than one cylinder, and put a teaspoonful of light oil in each cylinder. Clean and regap the plugs to .030 inches. If they look burned, replace them. Fouled or burned plugs are also an enemy of fuel economy.

Spring servicing of an outboard is a problem to a lot of boaters as the questions we've been asked indicate:

Q. Monofilament fishing line has worked its way into the housing around my propeller shaft. Is this harmful?

A. It is likely that the oil seal is ruined, and will have to be replaced. If at any time during the summer you know that fishing line has caught in your prop, stop the boat and get it off. Generally it is bad medicine.

Q. The spark plug points in my outboard were covered with a heavy yellow glaze. What is it?

A. This glaze on spark plugs is probably due to using leaded anti-knock gasoline. Outboard motors do not need premium or highly leaded fuel. The glaze is not harmful to the engine, just a nuisance, and it probably won't happen with the new lead-free gasolines. However, it is likely they will create other problems.

Q. I was washing my gas tank with paint solvent, then I noticed it had softened the fuel line hose. What happened!

A. You have to replace the fuel line. Some solvents soften and destroy neoprene and other synthetic rubbers. Be more careful the next time. Wash flexible rubber parts only in gasoline or similar mineral solvents.

Q. I am told that the tightness of spark plugs is critical in an outboard motor. Why?

A. Only on thermostatically-controlled cooling systems is plug tightness really critical. If you have a torque wrench, tightness should be 20-25 pounds-feet. Without one, turn the plugs finger tight, then give them three quarters of a turn with a wrench.

Q. Can you run an outboard out of water to test it?

A. It doesn't hurt an air cooled outboard. But in a water cooled engine — and most outboards are water cooled — the impeller of the water pump, which keeps the water circulating, is actually lubricated by the water it pumps. Without water the impeller will run hot very quickly, it will start to squeal and will finally burn out. For running longer than just a minute or so, the outboard must have its lower unit in water.

Q. Is it possible to replace magneto points oneself?

A. Yes, it's possible, but I would suggest you get a dealer to do it the first time and watch him carefully. He has the right instruments to adjust the points properly, and the cost is not great.

Q. There is a puddle of thick oil under my outboard motor where I left it standing over the winter. It's from the prop shaft. Is this bad?

A. It's bad and expensive. You will have to get a new oil seal in the lower unit at least, perhaps even a new bearing.

Redwood played without its first two singles players. Henry Jacobson was out with mononucleosis and Grant Grinnell was out with a cold, according to Giant coach Glen Dickey. Drake's Gene Lachelt won the first singles match convincingly over Mark Strasser, 63-60, to lead the Pirates.

"We have no excuses, said Dickey. "Drake has a good team. We played as well as we could, but they handled us."

Redwood had not lost an MCAL match since April 16, 1968, when Novato triumphed, 4-3. The Giants won the rest of their matches that year to take the championship, the first of six in a row.

Drake's victory also ended Redwood's overall undefeated streak at 61. Only a tie last year had marred Redwood's record since a 7-0 loss to Woodside High on March 26, 1971.

Host Tamalpais was led by Steve Livingston, who won the first singles match against Novato, 6-0, 6-1. Doug Carlisle won the first singles match for Terra Linda, 6-0, 6-0, while Mark Sabella led San Rafael, 7-6, 7-6, in a first singles victory.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

A's Manager Can Smile

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Oakland A's open defense of their baseball world championship tomorrow against the Texas Rangers, and maybe Vida Blue finally has given new manager Al Dark something to be cheerful about.

It hasn't been much of a spring for the Champions, who have won only eight and lost 15 exhibition games. And that follows a sort of tumultuous winter during which the A's didn't know who their manager was going to be.

Blue had a 20-9 record for Oakland last season and will be a key man in the A's' bid for a third straight world championship.

A few of Vida's outings this spring have been subpar. But he was right on target yesterday as he pitched 6 1-3 innings, stopping the Cleveland Indians during that period to set up an 8-3 victory.

Blut wasn't mowing'em down in his old flamethrowing way — he struck out only two — but he also walked only one against a club that had a .297 team batting average. After he left in the seventh Darold Knowles relieved and the Indians scored an unearned run charged to Blue with the help of an error.

Sal Bando also showed signs of reaching form as he slammed a two-run homer, his first of the spring, to break out of a .200 batting slump. Here's how the other exhibition games went:

Phillies 8 Cards 4

Pirates 4 Phillies B Team 2

The Pittsburgh Pirates feasted on the Philadelphia Phillies' scrubs, homers by Willie Stargell and Kurt Bevacqua leading a 17-hit onslaught.

Cubs 11 Brewers 10

The wind was blowing in Arizona and baseballs did strange things. This wild affair, which started with the Chicago Cubs scoring four runs in the first inning off Milwaukee Brewer ace Jim Colborn, wound up with them winning them game on Dave Rosello's sacrifice fly off Tom Murphy.

Mets 3 Yankees 0

Three-hit shutout putching for six innings by Jon Matlack, who struck out seven of the first nine New York Yankees. A homer by John Milner and a two-run single by Wayne Garrett, all in the third inning, gave that good New York Met pitching all the runs it needed.

Braves 3 Orioles 2

Castoff Ivan Murrell, whom the Atlanta Braves got from San Diego on Waivers, hit a homer in his last at-bat Monday and on his first two at-bats yesterday. Still Atlanta was tied 2-2 in the ninth inning until Craig Robinson singles and Mike Lum doubles him home with the winning run.

Tigers 4 Astros 2

Joe Coleman, 23-game winner last year, tuned up with five breezing scoreless innings, giving two hits, for Detroit as ex Los Angeles Dodgers Claude Osteen, who had notched 23 scoreless innings, suffered his first loss for the Houston Astros. Eddie Brinkman and Al Kaline drove in two tiger runs each.

Angels 8 U. of Southern Cal 5

Collegians led 3-2 until the California Angels scored five in the sixth with the help of three walks, a wild pitch, and a passed ball.

Rained out was Kansas City-Montreal.

Sun Shines Too Late For Preps

The sun broke through the clouds for the first time in two weeks yesterday, but not soon enough to dry many of the playing fields used by Marin high school athletes.

Many baseball games and track and field meets had to be rescheduled, as well as a golf match, though the tennis and swimming teams were able to compete.

Tamalpais High School played Marin Catholic in baseball (see separate story), but the other three games were rescheduled for April 24 at 4 p.m. They are San Rafael at Drake, Redwood at Novato and San Marin vs. Terra Linda at Albert Field.

All four track meets were washed out. Makeups call for Terra Linda at Marin Catholic today, San Rafael at Redwood April 16, Novato at Drake April 22 and Tamalpais at San Marin April 30, all at 3:30 p.m.

Three golf matches were held (see separate story), but the encounter between Terra Linda and San Marin at Indian Valley was rescheduled for April 17.

Also postponed was College of Marin's home baseball game against Contra Costa of San Pablo, which will be replayed sometime after spring vacation.

Vancouver Calls On Lowly Seals

OAKLAND (AP) — The California Golden Seals are into the homestretch of their dismal National Hockey League season, after losing their 38th and final away game of the year.

The Seals, who take on Vancouver here tonight, added another notch to their NHL record for most losses on the road by bowing to the Blues 5-3 last night in St. Louis. In all, the Seals have lost 53 games this season, equalling their poorest campaign of 1970-71. The NHL record for most losses in a season is held by the New York Islanders who dropped 60 last year.

The Seals trailed St. Louis 3-0 in the third period before newcomer Dell Hall scored his first two NHL goals just 26 seconds apart. Hall was playing in only his second game since being called up from Salt Lake City.

San Rafael Is Swimming Victor

San Rafael topped host Novato, 124-39, while Redwood downed visiting San Marin, 101-69. Terra Linda defeated Tamalpais by forfeit, and Drake drew a bye.

San Rafael improved its MCAL record to 8-1 and rebounded from its 89½ to 82½ upset loss to Terra Linda Friday. Redwood and Terra Linda are tied for second at 6-1-1. Redwood has one meet left with Terra Linda and another with San Rafael.

Redwood's Mike Lindstrom won both freestyle sprints and swam on the victorious 400 free relay team, and Matt Lager was on that relay in addition to winning the 200-yard individual medley and 500 free.

San Rafael's Bob Placak won two events and swam on a winning relay, and Ken DeMont won two individual races.

Marin 'Cats Drop To Third In Golf

Marin Catholic High School's brief early-season lead was swept away by howling wind and the golfing of San Rafael yesterday, as the Bulldogs took a 222-236 victory at Meadow Club near Fairfax.

In other Marin County Athletic matches, Novato topped Tamalpais at Mill Valley Municipal, 193-210, and Redwood downed Drake at Meadow Club, 222-238.

Marin Catholic had won its first two matches of the rain-disrupted season, but the Wildcats were knocked back into third place behind San Rafael's and Novato's 2-0 records.

Craig Vogensen shot a three-over-par 39 to lead the San Rafael effort.

Hockey Pair To New York

Some people go to Niagara Falls for the romance and tenderness of a honeymoon. Two Marin boys, however, will be going for the competition and bruising contact of a hockey game.

Goalie John Rotar of Corte Madera and defenseman Russ Dotson of San Rafael will be playing for the Berkeley midget team which will compete in the national championships Friday through Sunday in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Seven regional champions plus the host team are entered. They are split into two divisions. Top two teams in each division following round-robin play Friday and Saturday will compete in the semi-finals and finals Sunday.

Berkeley will play Friday at 10 p.m. against Detroit, Saturday at 2 p.m. against Duluth, Minn., and Saturday at 10 p.m. against the New York champion. Semi-finals are at 8 and 10 a.m. Sunday and finals at 4 p.m.

Berkeley won the Pacific Coast Regionals March 23-24 by outscoring Portland, Ore., in total goals over a two-game series in Berkeley. Berkeley tied, 3-3, and won, 4-2.

SANTA CLARA — Now Sonoma State College knows why Santa Clara is ranked among the nation's top major college baseball teams.

The Broncos exploded for eight runs in the fourth inning yesterday to hand Sonoma a 12-4 non-league defeat, despite a solo home run by the Cossacks' Marshall Brant and a three-for-four performance at the plate by Dale Lyster.

Punter Widby Observed At Packers' Camp

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Punter Rod Widby will be observed closely during the Green Bay Packers' rookie camp this week to see if he has recovered from corrective disc surgery.

"We're anxious to ascertain Ron's recovery progress," said Coach Dan Devine, "because he is extremely important to us."

Widby missed the final two games last season because of a back injury.

"In addition to being our punter, he does an excellent job of holding for our placekicker, Chester Marcol," Devine said.

"He also is a good stable person to have on the ballclub because he was a member of a Super Bowl team with the Dallas Cowboys."

Spalding Offers $15,000 For Ball

Combined AP & UPI

CHICOPEE, Mass. — Spalding, which sells the baseballs used in all major league games for $2 apiece, has offered $15,000 to get a slightly used one back.

That is the one Hank Aaron hits for his 715th home run to surpass Babe Ruth's lifetime record. He's two homers shy of that now, and his Atlanta Braves open the season in Cincinnati tomorrow. Traditionally, the ball belongs to the fan who catches it.

Bob McTear, Spalding's product manager, said the firm will turn the ball over to the baseball Hall of Fame immediately if it can buy it. Spalding isn't alone in the bidding.

72-Year-Old Securities Ace's Market Predictions Ring True

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Edson Gould is an elder statesman among securities analysts, a forecaster who has made some notably accurate estimates and whose word sometimes is taken as gospel. He is also considered a bear.

Gould, 72, has been dour in his outlook since the mid-1960s, when he suggested an end had come to a bull market that pushed the Dow Jones industrial average from 92.69 points in 1942 to more than 1,000 in 1966. Since then the average has never substantially or for any length of time exceeded that figure. It dipped as low as 631 in 1970 and rose to 1,067 early in 1973, before descending to its present range of 840 to 850 points.

Gould maintains it will break out of that range, however, and in both directions. After a decided drop, perhaps to under 700 points late this year or very early in 1975, he foresees the beginning of a major bull market.

The bull's first steps will be a bit shaky, in Gould's view. He believes there might be a turndown, but not a very bad one, in 1976. Then he expects the ascent to resume in 1977 and 1978 and to erupt to 3,000 to 5,000 points in the 1980s.

Assuring an incredulous listener that such a jump wasn't unprecedented, Gould recalled the post-World War II advance, which was even larger in percentage, and an earlier leap that brought the average from 40.52 in 1932 to 195 in 1937.

But before those jagged graph lines pierce the financial stratosphere, "we're going to go through a hell of a lot of grief," says Gould, referring to his expectations of a decline this coming winter.

Why a decline? Gould explains that every major move in the market has three stages. When it rises it does so in steps, he insists. And when it falls it usually trips three times. It has already happened twice.

"In February 1966 the Dow reached 1,001 points," Gould relates, retrieving figures easily from a data bank mind.

"In October 1966 it fell to 735. In December 1968 it rose to 884. In May 1970 it fell to 627. In January 1973 it reached 1,067. And now its getting down for the third time."

While believing in the three-step theory, Gould has enough battle scars to be wary of a predicting fourth. By that time, though, even the most obstinate will be shaken out of the market. There'll be no more sellers.

"Thus, rather than regarding the near-term outlook for declining prices with worry, fear and trembling, the investor should welcome it . . ." he related in "Findings & Forecasts."

Gould's rationale for an advance is compounded of many factors. There are the numbers and the tracings of the graphs, which all technicians examine for signs and signals. There is mass psychology, which Gould feels the market reflects.

He believes no market can become bullish unless international monetary affairs are sound. The worst market fears, he declares, are war and a shaky monetary structure.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Notification Of Audit Can Mean A Number Of Things

When you receive a notice that youre return is being audited, it may mean a refund for you, or no change in your taxes, or an additional tax due.

When your tax return is audited, you will have to explain some items. While adequate records should be kept, the kind of records you should keep are not spelled out in the law.

Your W-2 form, canceled checks, receipts or other evidence to support deductions or credits claimed on your income tax return should be sufficient records to support these items.

If you find you made a mistake, you should immediately file an amended return. Claim the refund due because of the mistake or pay the tax you owe.

If there is any additional tax due for 1973 and the amended return is file and the additional tax paid by April 15, 1974, there will be no penalty or interest.

If you would have done better to itemize your deductions instead of using the standard deduction, you can still amend your return.

You can file an amended return and claim a refund any time within three years of the due date of the return you wish to amend or within two years from the time you paid the tax — which ever is longest.

More than ever before, it is important that your income tax return be completely and accurately prepared. Your careful attention to the details of your tax return can save both you and the government needless time and expense answering questions the computers will generate if your return is inaccurate or incomplete.

A few extra minutes spent checking your tax return before you send it in could save you hours of explaining later.

NEW FIAT SPORTS CAR

The Fiat X1/9 sports car, which brings mid-engined handling and ride comfort to a whole new price class, makes its official American debut this year after more than a year of tuning to U.S. road conditions. The X1/9 has two luggage compartments, fore and aft, and a spacious interior with bucket seats anatomically shaped. Carpeting is tough washable synthetic fiber. The sports car is capable of speeds of around 100 miles per hour, yet will give more than 25 miles per gallon at in-town use. Local Fiat dealer is Brown Motors Inc. of San Rafael.

$3 Billion Taken By Shoplifters

About $3 billion worth of merchandise was shoplifted in 1973 according to the National Retail Merchants Association. And retail stores are looking at two approaches to fight the problem.

Improved packaging and "stop thief" tags that set off alarms are two approaches suggested by packaging and electronic experts. Their objective is to reduce shoplifting which increased 84 per cent from 1966 to 1972, according to the FBI.

Reed District Will Need Added Income

Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello said he told trustees that because of legal limitations revenue will probably be $2,377,396, about $22,000 higher than this year's estimated revenue of $2,355,813.

He said that if expenses rise faster than income, the district will have to dip into its reserves to make ends meet.

On April 16, the board will discuss its 1974-75 budget, the superintendent said.

The Reed School District Board Also:

SUBSTITUTES — Heard Eugenia Sammis on behalf of district substitute teachers request that their daily pay for next year be raised from $27.50 to $35.

JOINT USE — Appointed trustee Margaret Jones to serve on a committee with representatives of Tiburon and Belvedere to discuss joint uses of school buildings by the cities and community. Alternates for the committee will be board members Charles Patterson and Leo Souza and Mrs. Stuart Pollak, president of the Reed Parent-Teacher Club.

CLOSED MEETING — Met in closed session to instruct the superintendent on salary negotiations being held with teachers.

MEETING — Set April 18 at 8 p.m. at Reedland Woods School for a meeting to discuss use of facilities and the program at the school.

Firefly Liked As State Insect

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The firefly is going to make it big in Pennsylvania, if Gov. Milton Shapp goes along with thousands of children and the Legislature.

The House voted 157-22 to adopt a Senate bill to make the firefly Pennsylvania's state insect, and sent it to the governor for signing.

"This bill is an example why the Pennsylvania Legislature should be limited to three months a year," complained Republican Rep. John B. McCue. "People in my district are asking, 'don't you fellows have anything to do besides pass firefly legislation?'"

Bill Vetoed

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Gov. Winfield Dunn has vetoed a bill that would have prohibited male and female college students from living together on campus. He said it was unfair to reason that only students are promiscuous.

Body Of Oakland Woman Is Found

The body of Deborah Wong, 18, of Oakland was washed ashore at Fort Cronkhite yesterday not far from where she and another young woman were swept out to sea Sunday on a rip tide.

Her companion, Marilyn Higholt, 22, also of Oakland, was still missing and presumed drowned.

Both were students at Merritt Junior College.

Miss Wong, Miss Highholt and Douglas E. Garakin, 27, of Oakland were fishing at the fort when the women were swept away while trying to cross a rain-swollen creek at the outlet of Rodeo Lagoon.

Psychiatrist Decker To Leave Post

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Dr. J. Barry Decker of Mill Valley, award-winning psychiatrist who has headed San Francisco's community mental health program, yesterday announced his resignation and said he plans to take a sabbatical leave in Mexico.

Decker, 44, said his seven years as a city psychiatrist had been "incredibly exciting and rewarding" but he wants now to pursue other career directions.

During Dr. Decker's tenure in office, the number of patients treated annually by the San Francisco mental health program has grown from 8,000 to 40,000 under state directives for more local care.

In 1972, Decker received the annual award of the California Association for Mental Health for "planning total community mental health care in San Francisco."

He said yesterday he plans to travel in Mexico and Central America with his wife, Eleanor and five children, and return eventually to the Bay Area to live.

He will be succeeded in the $35,000-a-year job by his chief assistant, Dr. Arthur Carfagni.

A PG&E Rate Hike Approved

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A rate increase for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. was approved by the Public Utilities Commission yesterday, but it was not as much as requested.

Despite protests from a consumer group, a yearly rate increase of $58.8 million was approved and is effective immediately. The company requested a boost of $89.6 million, but the PUC ruled the costs have dwindled because of a surplus of hydro-electric power from the northwest the past several months.

Our Penny Soon Won't Be Worth A Red Cent

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
38 SAN RAFAEL, CALIF, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

If anybody needed proof that our money is rapidly becoming worthless, he has it now.

The United States Mint has urgently requested legislation to take the copper out of pennies.

The reason, as a House subcommittee was told last week, is that the copper in the penny is worth more than a cent. The penny is made of 95 per cent copper and 5 per cent zinc. The mint wants to change that to 96 per cent aluminum alloy and 4 per cent other metals.

We had what should have alerted us to the deterioration of our money several years ago, when dimes, quarters and dollars were turned into "sandwiches" with copper in the middle and a thin silver coating on both sides. Silver had become worth more than the value of the coins.

That change produced some grumbling, but little realization of what was happening.

THE REASON that coins no longer represent the value of the metals in them is simply that our monetary system is based on promissory notes.

The federal government spends more than it receives. It has been doing so for years. So it issues promissory notes — more paper money — to cover its "overdrafts."

Paper money used to be based on metal. A $10 gold certificate signified that the U.S.A. had gold stored away in its vaults to the value of $10. A $10 silver certificate represented $10 worth of silver similarly stored.

The "yellowback" gold certificate vanished from circulation when the U.S.A. went off the gold standard early in the depression of the 1930s. The silver certificate was quietly phased out to prevent a double-standard currency as silver became worth more than the dollar represented by a Federal Reserve note.

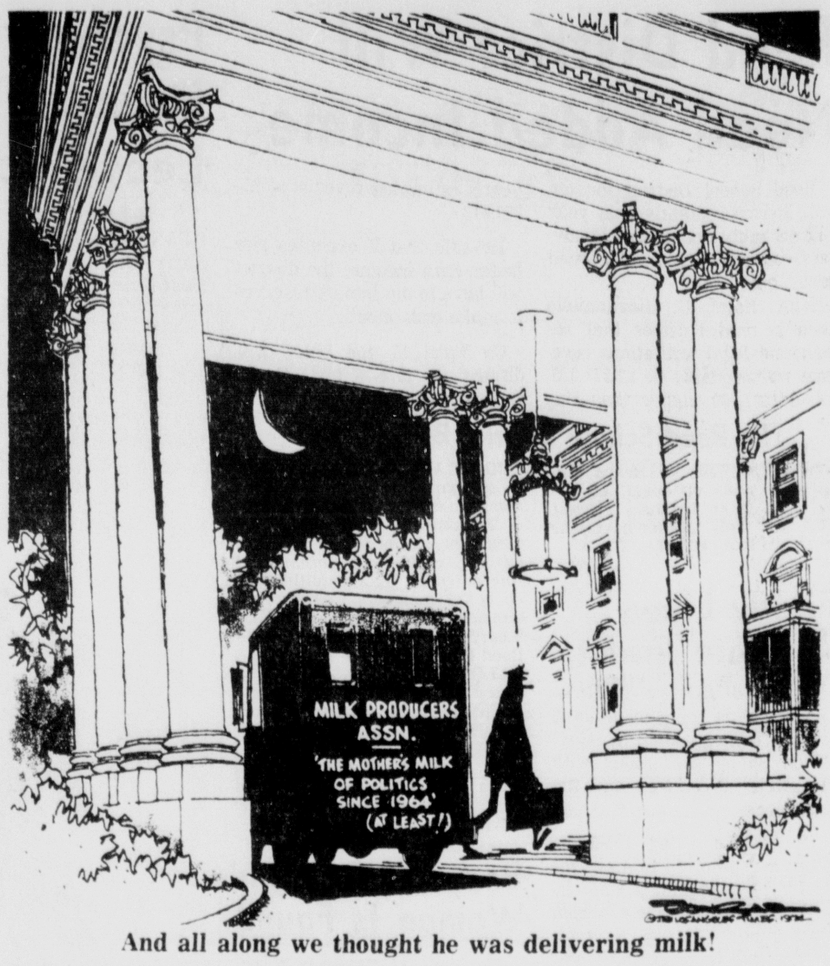
If you look at the "folding money" you have in your pocket now (provided you are lucky enough to have some), you will find that all the bills say "Federal Reserve note."

THE FEDERAL Reserve controls the money supply. But it must issue however much is required to pay Uncle Sam's bills — or all of them that cannot be handled by mere credit transfers.

It follows that the farther in debt the government gets, the less the money is worth.

That is the principal reason why we have inflation. It is also the reason why it is merely wasted effort to try to "catch up" through pay increases. As the money depreciates, additional wages have no additional purchasing power. "Real wages" in the United States — translated into terms of what the money would buy — actually declined last year.

The moral in all of this is that there is no "free ride." The first step toward putting the copper back in the penny and the silver in the dime is for the government to spend less than it receives. To make this possible, all of us must quit looking to Uncle for handouts.



And all along we thought he was delivering milk!

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Other Side Of The Story On South Vietnam Conditions

WASHINGTON — It's about time somebody began to present the "other side" of what's going on in South Vietnam.

For weeks now Jane Fonda, Tom Hayden and others whose visits to Hanoi always gave the North Vietnamese Politburo great satisfaction have been raining down their views on Washington, on Congress and on the country, portraying Saigon's anti-Communist government as so evil, corrupt and oppressive that it is unworthy of continued U.S. economic help.

Have you heard or read very much of the other side of the story?

FORTUNATELY, an independent fact-finding mission headed by John M. Allison, retired assistant secretary of state who served as ambassador in Japan, Indonesia and Czechoslovakia, and six other American Southeast Asia-specialists has just issued a report based on extensive first-hand observation.

It provides balanced and corrective information, and to many it will be a convincing rebuttal. It deals with most of the accusations which the Jane Fonda-Tom Hayden team made during their recent anti-South Vietnam seminars on Capitol Hill.

ALLEGATION: The Thieu government is holding some 202,000 political opponents in barbarous captivity.

ANSWER: The Allison mission found that the total number of prisoners is 35,139 and that number includes law violators of all types. The report demonstrates that the much-publicized "tiger cage" stories are without foundation.

ANSWER: The 18 million people of South Vietnam, despite wartime conditions, today enjoy far more personal freedom and political participation than most developing nations in Southwest Asia and elsewhere around the world. Leading opponents like Father Chan Tin, Marshal Ky and "Big Minh" freely criticize the government.

ALLEGATION: The Thieu government is resented and hated by most South Vietnamese people and keeps power only through military strength.

ANSWER: The number or weapons now in the hands of ordinary South Vietnamese people, apart from the regular forces, is well over one million. Dictators don't do this. If the people preferred the Viet Cong to the present government, all they would have to do would be turn their weapons "the wrong way" for a few hours.

ALLEGATION: South Vietnam is weak, unable to defend itself, and will inevitably fall to the Communists.

ANSWER: The South Vietnamese thus far have been able to beat back fierce probing attacks. As yet the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have failed to conquer a single provincial capital or significant population center.

ALLEGATION: It would be well for the United States to abandon South Vietnam entirely and throw it to the Communists.

ANSWER: South Vietnam has proved itself a reliable ally and a sound investment in the cause of freedom in Southeast Asia. It can become a model of Asian-style democracy — vigorous, prosperous and, above all, free. Today South Vietnam needs economic aid the way nations of Western Europe needed it after World War II to survive.

The question which the Allison commission asks Congress to answer is: Why snatch failure from the jaws of success by delivering South Vietnam and its 18 million people to the Communists by default?

1974, Los Angeles Times

ERNEST B. FURGURSON: Fading Commune

GNAW BONE, Ind. — I see by the Brown County Democrat that Story is for sale.

Story is a town, sort of, about seven miles south of Gnaw Bone, 11 miles down from Bean Blossom and four miles southwest of Pike's Peak, Inc. It consists of a general store, an old grist mill, a six-room house, a repair shop, a barn and several other small buildings, with hundreds of genuine country antiques remaining intact, all on 4.33 acres, all for $34,800, or maybe less.

About five years ago I would have thought this was an opportunity for somebody like the congregation of the Kneedmore Life Community Church. But they settled instead at Needmore, which is out the Owl Creek Road the other side of Nashville. Instead of starting with a modest headquarters like Story, they began on nearly 500 acres bought by a wealthy kindred spirit, and by late 1970 they were operating a genuine organic farm commune, where they kept pests under control with ladybugs, praying mantises and such.

THE COMMUNE ACTION is one of the things that brought me to Brown County. I have to report that if the rest of the commune movement is doing as well as it is here, it has just about petered out.

The other reason I came is that as I peripeticate about, I have been looking back at Ernie Pyle's "Home Country," written before he went off to war and greater renown, when he literally lived on the road, doing columns about people and places. He came across Brown County, right here in his own home state, and about it wrote:

"On the whole, I am ill at ease in the company of artists, for so much of the time I don't know what they are talking about. And yet I invariably like the places they have made into colonies. And so it was with Brown County, Ind. I fell head over heels for the place, and the people, and the hills, and the whole general air of peacefulness. Good Lord, I even liked the artists there!"

He said that as of 1940, the artists already had decided the country was "spoiled" by progress, and "they would have gone away, except that they said it was better than anywhere else."

If he liked it that much, I had to come see. So did the Kneedmore gang. So do several thousand tourists on leafy week ends in the fall. What the tourists and I find is that there is only one stoplight in the county, at the intersection in Nashville, which with 700-odd people is the only metropolis. The artists are still hanging on, with guilds and galleries up and down Main and Van Buren streets, and a whole procession of nice homes and studios up Route 135 toward Bean Blossom Ridge.

WHAT THE COMMUNARDS found was that the Brown Countyans were tolerant as long as they stuck to their organic farming, handicrafts and good neighborliness. But they lost patience when the "foreigners" wanted to cash in on welfare food stamps, when drugs occasionally reared their unfamiliar threat, and when some of the newcomers were organizing to march on Washington at May Day four years ago. That was when vigilante talk started floating around Nashville.

But the reasons why the Kneedmore commune has dried up are more nebulous than that. Some of its survivors have fitted into the straight community, as artisans or otherwise, and get along fine. Most have drifted away, as the early enthusiasm of the back-to-the-earth movement has come up against the hard reality of working the earth to make a living. So, so far there are no wealthy kindred spirits, communards or otherwise, clamoring to set up a new-life community at Story — even at a reduced price.

The tourists come and go, the communards came and went, the artists came and stayed, I came and am going — and Brown County is still pretty much the way Ernie Pyle found it, give or take a motel, a miniature shopping center and an electric stoplight. Even with those, it is a far remove from where I have been, like Indianapolis, and where I am going, like East St. Louis.

Franchise Proposal Not Original With Toal

A brickbat to the I-J for erroneous reporting and for awarding an undeserved bouquet to Councilman Pieter Toal "for suggesting the city call for bids before granting the garbage company a new franchise," a suggestion certainly not requiring a tremendous amount of statesmanship.

This suggestion came orally from two concerned San Anselmo citizens at the last council meeting of March 26, and was vociferously seconded by others in attendance and was earlier presented in writing (with other suggestions) to the I-J, the Ross Valley Reporter (which printed the letter) and the County Consumer Affairs Department. . .

Candidate Urges Appeal Of Ruling On Water

Judge E. Warren McGuire's intended decision-forcing the Marin Municipal Water District to give the McCarthy Co. hook-ups for their apartment complex and finding that the MMWD did not have a reasonable basis for maintaining the water moratorium — raises a very serious question directly related to the American doctrine of "separation of powers."

Judge McGuire's finding that "there was reasonable basis for the defendant (MMWD) to declare the existance of an actual water shortage emergency situation" went on to rule that the MMWD has a duty that is imposed by law to augment the water supply to meet the demands of all those who want water.

If voter approval measures for financing water augmentation fail, as has been the case with both Prosposition B and E, Judge McGuire would require the MMWD to augment the water supply by increasing the water rates, despite overwhelming opposition by the electorate.

This ruling in effect compels an increase in water rates in order to subsidize the augmentation of the water supply. Judge McGuire's ruling constitutes an action by the judiciary branch of government which the state water code clearly vests in the elected representatives of the MMWD. Failure to appeal this decision could be tantamount to condoning judicial interference with the decision making powers vested by law in elected officials. Therefore, if elected to the MMWD on June 4, I would vote to appeal Judge McGuire's decision.

As I have previously stated, I am for maintaining the moratorium on new water connections until the district is no longer threatened with a water shortage. But I strongly believe that it would be in the best interest of all parties concerned to sit down and hammer out an equitable solution to this problem . . .

Depressed By Reaction To Recycling Rule

I cannot help being very depressed by the evident reaction of many San Anselmo residents to the inclusion of recycling into their garbage collection system. How ecstatic I would be if such a system existed in Mill Valley!

Having been a member of the can and bottle brigade for some years now, I can sympathize with those who abhor the extra time involved, and I can sympathize with those who feel that government is pushing them around again, being no stranger to those sentiments. But I fail to see how people are being pushed around, when they are being given an option — they can recycle for a lower rate, or not, as they wish. And I fail to see how they can deny the validity of the principle, regardless of whether they have the time or inclination to be involved. . .

Recycling is not hard once you arrange for it in your life. I obtained five containers which would fit under my sink — one for organic materials, which I compost; one for aluminum; one for tin; one for paper, and one for non-recyclables. Bottles and newspapers I also have a place for. All paper bags go into my car for reuse when shopping. It took a little while to get used to, but after a while it's a habit.

CAPITOL QUIPS

By PHIL DESSAUER

Quickly now — we need to take the graft and corruption out of Maryland politics before it spreads and begins to infect Washington.

Let's lay one vicious rumor to rest right now. Nixon is going to Russia this summer for a summit meeting, not to seek asylum.

Kissinger and Brezhnev had only limited success in their Moscow talks. They reached some agreement, but not as much as neither of them had expected.

Female supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment still say they're going to bring home the bacon — taken, of course, from male chauvinist pigs.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Some San Francisco School Problems Duplicated Statewide

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Among the fallout from San Francisco's latest round of school troubles is a renewed attack on administrative tenure in that city's schools.

San Francisco schools were hit with a "triple whammy" last month. Statewide test program results for 1972 and 1973, released simultaneously, showed the Golden Gate city's pupils slipping farther and farther behing. Meanwhile, San Francisco's median teacher salary was in the top 10 per cent statewide (before last month's strike and its resulting raise), and per-pupil expenditures for instructions were in the top three per cent.

State Supt. Wilson C. Riles had those test scores — along with other things — in mind when he testified at a hearing in Washington that the San Francisco schools were "an embarrassment" because of their high cost and poor results.

And as the test rankings came out and Riles dropped his block-buster, half of San Francisco's teachers were on strike and three-fourths of the pupils were taking advantage of the opportunity to cut school.

THE STATE superintendent's comments riled (no pun intended) San Francisco board members already edgy because of the test results and the strike.

School boards come and go, pointed out Kidder, but the administrators stay on — because San Francisco, alone in California, has tenure for school administrators by a provision of its city charter.

The superintendent's cabinet makes the decisions, said Kidder, and it is made up of "tenured, opinionated, rigid people."

Kidder's remarks stirred San Francisco Supervisor Robert Gonzales to a new attack on administrative tenure, which he has been fighting unsuccessfully for five years. "I don't think management — and that's what the administrators are — is entitled to lifetime security in their positions," asserted Gonzales.

Legislators in Sacramento may have had an eye on what was happening in San Francisco. The Assembly passed, 75-to-3, AB 2840 by Assemblyman Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, which would prohibit tenure for school administrators anywhere in California.

A previous Brown bill to deny tenure to San Francisco administrators had been vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan because of the conflict with the city charter. Amendments to the charter to do away with the system were voted down in 1969 and again in 1971.

THE FURORE pointed up two problems which are not confined to San Francisco's school system. One is the steady increase in central office positions, which grow by Parkinson's Law rather than by need. Another is the flaw with lifetime tenure for anybody in any job.

San Francisco's well-paid teachers complain, with cause, about their working conditions. They complain about class sizes in some schools (although high truancy keeps actual attendance down). They complain about lack of support in discipline. And they complain about the bureaucracy which has loaded the system with more central office chair-warmers and district-wide "specialists" than regular classroom teachers.

Similar situations exist — although usually in lesser degree — in most of the larger school districts in Calfiornia, and even in some of the small ones.

Also, "tenured, opinionated, rigid people," as Kidder styled them, exist outside the central office — elsewhere as well as in San Francisco.

JUST ABOUT EVERY attempt to improve the public schools runs, sooner or later, into difficulties because of teacher tenure.

A new program cannot be provided or cannot be effective because a district lacks teachers with the proper training for it — and cannot release any teacher already on the payroll to make room for one with the needed training.

When a new method is introduced, it is likely to get half-hearted support from teachers accustomed to other methods, who know their jobs are safe anyhow. When pupils fail to advance in certain classes, little can be done about it because the teachers cannot be removed. Efficiency is impossible where every employee has a lifetime contract upon being hired — which is the case in Calfiornia's public schools.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

No Cause For Cheers In Economic Message

By RUS WALTON

Gov. Ronald Reagan recently sent the state legislature his economic message for 1974.

It's all about your dough, your earnings and taxes, so we'd better give it a once-over lightly.

All in all, 1974 looks like a "push" — that's the "new" economist's word for a stand-off; not too many ups and not many downs. Sort of "blah."

In 1973, that went up about 10 per cent and per capita income rose 8.5 per cent. "The biggest year-to-year gain since 1951" — that's what the Guv said in his report. But,when you figure that inflation (the cost of living) went up about six per cent, 1973 was no big deal in terms of increasing your standard of living.

The report suggests that personal income in 1974 will rise about seven per cent. Not too many days ago a panel of experts predicted that this year's inflation will work out to about seven per cent. So, we're still in a rut — dollar-wise.

Employment should increase slightly in 1974, up about 86,000 to a total of 8,265,000 Californians at work by the end of this year.

WONDER OF WONDERS, the growth in the number of government workers slowed down in 1973: only 27,000 additional employees in those 12 months compared with an increase of 39,000 in 1972. Over the past 10 years, the increase in government workers has averaged 59,000 a year. There are now 1.55 million government workers in California — 590,000 more than there were in 1963.

Today, one out of every five wage-earners in the state is on the public payroll — federal, state and local. Makes no difference which payroll, it all comes out of the same taxpayers.

Unemployment will also increase in 1974. By the end of the year, according to the report, there will be about 720,000 Californians out of work — an increase of 107,000 and an unemployment rate of eight per cent.

STATE TAX COLLECTIONS for 1974 will be at least $481 million greater than they were in 1973, rising to a total of $7.6 billion. Part of that additional grab will come because of the additional one cent on the sales tax — the one both Governor Reagan and Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti said we just couldn't do without.

The report goes on to predict that the state's tax take for 1975 will be $8.9 billion! That's a whopping $1.3 billion increase above this year. It would take those taxes up to $425 per capita — about $1,330 for every non-governmental worker. For 1975, it would figure out to something like $7.43 on every $100 in personal income. In 1974 state taxes per $100 will be about $6.83.

Like the man said: "Cheer up, things could be worse . . ." And I did and they were.

THE MIND I LIVE IN

Did Spears Wear Black While Killing Thompson?

By ROB TREICHLER

Three unrelated court stories were covered in the press last week, but I can't shake the feeling they were somehow vaguely related. But then I sometimes add two and two and come up with five.

A West Virginia defendant was acquitted in the murder of a motorcycle gang member. Robert Spears testified that he had shot Rocco Thompson only after Thompson had held a gun on a woman and threatened her. Spears tidied up after shooting Thompson by dumping his body, attached to a 30-pound steel grate, in the Ohio River. He has been recharged by the district attorney with littering a stream with the carcass of a dead animal — to wit, the body of Rocco Thompson.

IN McMINNVILLE, TENN., Mrs. Linda Lusk went to court in slacks to pay her fine on a speeding violation. Judge W.G. McDonough instructed her to return to the court attired in a dress. Her husband was called a "smart aleck" when he objected to the judge's request and was fined $10 for contempt of court.

Former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst is reportedly "plea bargaining" on charges that he made false or misleading sworn statements to Congress during the ITT antitrust case in 1972. The story is that he will plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge in return for no prison time. Both sides are reportedly seeking a proper misdemeanor charge under which Kleindienst can plead guilty.

If Spears evades the charge of littering a stream with a dead carcass, it is wondered whether the next charge will be doing businesses withough an undertaker's license, or perhaps attempting to fill a stream without filing an environmental impact study.

Mrs. Lusk apparently went into court to pay her fine and acknowledged her guilt in speeding. One can't help wondering if her fine, and her guilt, in the eyes of the court would have perhaps been reduced or eliminated if she had shown the great sense to appear in basic black and pearls or something with greater propriety?

WHAT'S THE CONNECTION? None, really. I like to think of the courts as wonderfully impartial, bound only by the majesty of the law. Blind justice, and all that. But what is at about the courts that rules slacks improper while perjury in the search of truth is a mere misdemeanor when practiced by one of the highest court officials of the land?

It is probably good that judges cannot walk out on the streets and fine citizens, or jail them, for their true feelings regarding "contempt of the courts." There would be too few good souls left to keep the wheels of industry turning.

Watergate Probers Eye More Subpoenas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Watergate prosecutors say they will issue more subpoenas against President Nixon if he refuses voluntarily to surrender materials they need to investigate the scandal and related matters.

In response to a subpoena Friday, Nixon surrendered a number of White House documents—all of undisclosed content.

But Jaworski's office said yesterday the prosecutor will want much more material than has been received.

"We have made and will make requests for materials whenever we have sufficient cause to believe that they are relevant to the various investigations that fall under our mandate and which include a number of areas other than Watergate," Jaworski's office said.

"A number of such requests are outstanding. If there is noncompliance, subpoenas will be issued in accordance with the agreement between the President and the special prosecutor that such matters should be submitted to the court."

Other areas Jaworski is investigating include the handling of campaign funds; settlement of an antitrust case against the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., and political contributions to Nixon from dairy cooperatives.

The White House revealed James D. St. Clair, Nixon's Watergate lawyer, had "confidential conversations" with the staff of the House Judiciary Committee which is investigating whether grounds exist for Nixon's impeachment.

But Gerald L. Warren, deputy White House press secretary, refused to say how many coversations had taken place, or when.

The White House wants the committee to grant St. Clair the right to cross-examine any witnesses it calls.

Israel Reported Readying New Golan Heights Plan

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A new acting chief of staff took command of Israeli forces in a major shakeup growing out of the Arab surprise attack on Israel in the 1973 war.

An Israeli newspaper report said the Syrians had evacuated villagers near the 1973 battlefield, moved up additional artillery batteries and strengthened their infantry.

Syrian cannon fire hit the central and northern sectors of the Israeli bulge scooled out of Syria in the 18-day war but caused no casualties, a military spokesman said. He said Israeli gunners returned fire, sparking an exchange for the 23rd straight day.

The Jerusalem Post said army observers detected the Syrians evacuating civilians from villages opposite the Israeli bulge and moving up another armored brigade acroes from the southeast corner of the salient.

The movements prompted the Israelis to send in reinforcements and declare a high state of alert Monday, the Post said.

In Damascus, a Syrian military communique said the Israelis were indeed sending in reinforcements. The communique said Syrian troops retaliated today with artillery fire

Fulbright's MIA Trip Supported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who is organizing a congressional trip to Hanoi for a complete accounting of U.S. soldiers missing in action, says he has the full backing of the State Department.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Commitee, said yesterday he has been told the State Department not only has "no objection" to such a trip, it "would share the hope" a visit to North Vietnam would clear up at last the question of American MIAs.

Previous diplomatic efforts to determine the fate of the 1,300 servicemen still missing throughout Indochina have been unsuccessful, but Fulbright wants the Armed Services committees of both houses and the House Foreign Affairs and Senate Foreign Relations committees make another try.

Fulbright said he had written Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger Sunday seeking advice on how to proceed, and requesting assurances about the attitude of the South Vietnamese government to such a mission.

He also released two paragraphs of a letter he sent the same day to Pham Van Dong, North Vietnam's premier, urging an accounting of all MIAs.

"What appears to be needed at this point is a willingness o the part of your government to deal with this problem on a humanitarian basis," Fulbright wrote Dong.

"I must tell you that the American people do not understand what appears to them to be an effort on the part of your government and its allies to link a further accounting for missing U.S. military personnel to the negotiation of outstanding military and political issues between the Vietnamese parties to the P a r i s (peace) agreements."

In his letter to Kissinger, Fulbright said that on Feb. 18 he had suggested sending a congressional delegation to Vietnam to Linwood Holton, assistant secretary of State for congressional relations.

He said Holton had advised him the State Department not only would have no objections to such a trip, but would "facilitate such a trip to the extent possible."
